GERMANY ASKS TIME ON ARABIC

HUSBAND IGNORED WEDDING THREAT

That threats were made to "get" Oscar Russ if he persisted in marrying his wife, Emily, who was found by her husband strangled and with her throat cut in her apartments at No. 178 Centre street, Roxbury, while her eleven months old baby slept peacefully in the next room, is the latest development in the mysterious Russ murder case.

Mrs. John Russ, other of Oscar Russ, of No. 50A Linden Park street, said today:

"When my son married Emily some of her friends did not like it. Some of them even went so far as to publicly make threats that they would 'get' him, if he went through with the marriage."

HUSBAND IS HELD.

The police have detained the husband until Medical Examiner Waters reports on the autopsy he is performing today. Russ appeared before Judge Hayden of the Roxbury Court early today, who ordered him held pending an investigation.

Meanwhile relatives have taken charge of the baby girl, who slept peacefully through the tragedy. Several neighbors offered to care for the little one, but relatives declined their offer and the child was taken to the home of the dead woman's sister. It is thought the woman had been dead more than twelve hours before she was found.

The woman's throat had been cut and the razor which had been used was lying on her breast. Two cords had been tightly drawn around the neck of the murdered woman.

The police are seeking a man who has a prominent scar on his face. He is said to have accompanied the dead woman when she hired her tenement in the Center street house about five weeks ago. He was at first thought to be her husband but has not been seen since.

When the woman's husband came home from work, early last evening, he was unable to gain entrance to his home. He believed that his wife had gone out. He went away for a short while. When he returned he heard the cries of his infant daughter. He then feared that something was wrong. After waiting around for a short period he entered the apartment through an unlocked rear window.

In the front room of the tenement

Daniels and Big Flagship Wyoming Here

Almost simultaneously the naval dispatch boat Dolphin, carrying Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels and the battleship Wyoming, flagship of the Atlantic fleet, with Admiral Frank F. Fletcher, came up the harbor this morning and anchored off the Navy Yard.

The Wyoming is the biggest battleship ever seen in Boston. She was convoyed up the harbor by six tugs.

At the yard the Navy Yard Battery gunners and all ships' crews do offering the proper salutes in the proper order.

First the Navy Yard saluted the Dolphin with the nineteen guns due the Secretary of the Navy. The Dolphin replied with seven guns due Commandant William R. Rush.

Then the Navy Yard saluted the Wyoming with thirteen guns due an admiral, to which the Wyoming replied with the commandant's salute. Then the two ships saluted each other.

ENVOY BIDS U.S. WAIT BERLIN STORY

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador to the United States, has telegraphed a request to the State Department at Washington, that no action be taken in reference to the sinking of the Arabic until the official version from Berlin is received.

The Ambassador announced today that he had taken this action and that he had also wired to Secretary of State Lansing a request that the State Department make his dispatch public or that he be granted permission to do so.

The view of the German embassy, as learned today from an authoritative source, is that the United States government should not take any action based upon the English reports of the destruction of the Arabic.

DOUBT BRITISH STORIES.

The German government, it is learned, is not prepared to accept any British statements nor any affidavits of passengers on the Arabic that come through British sources nor from British sympathizers.

It is regarded as possible in German diplomatic circles that the Arabic may have been sunk by a mine, and the suggestion is not considered improbable by German officials that the Arabic might have been sent to the bottom "through British instrumentalities."

The opinion of German officials that developments may disprove British allegations in the Arabic case is based upon the contention that the sinking of the White Star liner by a German submarine would be a violation of the German naval policy which has been in effect since the exchange of notes between this country and Germany relative to the Lusitania.

If, however, it should be shown that the Arabic was sunk without warning by a German submarine, it is held that the German government would promptly disavow the act.

OFFER TY COBB $100,000 TO JOIN FEDS

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—An offer of $100,000 has been made to Ty Cobb to sign a three-year contract to play with the team that the Federal League will place in New York in 1916. Of this amount $50,000 will be paid to Cobb immediately upon signing the contract, while the balance will be paid over to him ever s stretch of three years.

Cobb, it is said, has taken the matter under consideration. Cobb's contract with the Detroit Tigers has three more years to run, and it is understood that the document is of the iron-clad nature.

The Federal League officials, it is understood, hope to told Cobb that if he signs up with them and is barred from playing by a court injunction that he will be paid his full salary by the Federals for sitting on the bench, but this arrangement is not entirely satisfactory to Cobb.

Cobb wants the money, but he wants to play baseball. And the idea of his sitting on the bench does not appeal to him.

It is understood that he told the Federals that if they can give him positive assurance that he would not be barred from playing if he signed with them, that he would talk business with them. Cobb signed a five-year contract with the Detroit club at the beginning of the 1914 season. The real salary that Cobb gets has not been made public, but it is believed to be in the neighborhood of $17,500 per year.

Boston Concern Refuses to Deal With Atlanta

The Harold L. Bond Company, a Boston concern, has refused to have business dealings with the city of Atlanta until the lynchers of Leo M. Frank have been arrested and punished, according to a news dispatch from the Georgia capital this afternoon.

A dispatch says the Boston company for the past two years has furnished Atlanta with caulking yarn and tools and that this firm has refused to have further dealings with Atlanta.

Atlanta's purchasing agent, W. E. Chambers, made public the following letter from the company:

"Answering your letter of the 17th, we do not care to quote prices on caulking, and we do not wish to solicit further any of the business of the city of Atlanta until the State of Georgia has taken official action looking to the apprehension and punishment of those men who murdered Leo M. Frank."

The communication was signed by the president of the company.

Inquiry among Boston ship chandlers and other dealers in caulking material and tools failed to reveal the identity of the firm which wrote the letter.

Frank Hanged by "Parties Unknown"

MARIETTA, Ga. Aug. 24.—Shortly before noon the coroner's jury investigating the hanging of Leo M. Frank returned a verdict that Frank "came to his death at the hands of parties unknown to the jury."

Twenty-five witnesses, including all who testified at the inquest, were subpoenaed to appear before the Grand Jury at its session next Tuesday, when that body will resume the investigation of the case.

REPORT GERMAN TRANSPORTS SUNK IN RIGA

By International News Service.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—Several thousand German soldiers are believed to have been drowned when ships on which they were being taken into the Gulf of Riga were destroyed by Russian artillery.

The Petrograd Nove Vremya states that during the German attempt to land forces at Pernau, three transports which were allowed to come close to shore came under the fire of Russian artillery, which opened a terrific fire. Within two hours they were destroyed.

Another attempt to land at Salisch, south of Pernau, resulted in the destruction of two lighters filled with troops.

Petrograd dispatches state that in addition to the losses previously reported, the Germans lost an auxiliary cruiser and a submarine in the naval engagement in the Gulf of Riga, but a message from Berlin, sent by way of Amsterdam today, declares that "Russian reports are greatly exaggerating the German naval losses as well as the importance of the engagement in the Gulf of Riga."

A German cruiser destroyed in the Gulf of Riga was blown up by mines according to a statement issued today at Petrograd. Additional details of the development of the conflict which resulted in the German naval defeat are given in the statement which follows:

"The importance of this fight consisted in preventing the Germans for a certain time from forcing our position. Calm, foggy conditions favored the enemy's operations, enabling him to escape our observation and proceed more quietly with the work of mine destroying.

"These operation nevertheless, cost the Germans some vessels and the cruiser which blew up on mines.

"The night of the 17th the enemy sent into the gulf two of his best torpedo boat destroyers to attack the Slava, which had prevented his operations at dawn. These torpedo boats were unable to find the Slava.

GOVERNORS GET BUSY IN FIRST SESSION

With fourteen Governors and thirteen former Governors seated around the "circle" in the Senate Chamber, the eighth Governors' Conference began in Boston today.

At 10:50 o'clock Governor Walsh of Massachusetts arose upon the Senate rostrum and began to tell the visitors how glad the Commonwealth was to see them. Mayor Curley followed him. Governor William Spry of Utah, responding for the conference, declared the Governors were mighty glad to be here; and Professor Albert Bushnell Hart of Harvard responded in behalf of the Educational Conference.

The governors present, beside Governor Walsh, when the welcoming addresses began were Marcus H. Holcomb of Connecticut, Arthur Capper of Kansas, S. V. Stewart of Montana, Roland H. Spaulding of New Hampshire, James F. Fielder of New Jerrey, R. L. Williams of Oklahoma, Richard I. Manning of South Carolina, William Spry of Utah, Henry C. Stuart of Virginia, Ernest Lister of Washington, W. S. Hammond of Minnesota, Frank M. Byrne of South Dakota and Charles W. Gates of Vermont.

The former Governors in the circle were William T. Haines of Maine, Joseph M. Carey of Wyoming, William Hodges Mann of Virginia, Francis E. McGovern of Wisconsin, Elias M. Ammons and Alva Adams of Colorado, John A. Dix of New York, Eugene Foss of Massachusetts, Albert W. Gilchrist of Florida, Cole L. Blease of South Carolina, Henry H.

Safe and Sane Horse Sought by Gov. Walsh

Governor Walsh is today looking for a horse which he can ride with both safety and dignity in the militia parade Thursday afternoon.

The Governor is fussy about the looks of the beast because as commander-in-chief of the State militia he wants to make the best possible showing. He wants a safe horse, because only a year ago he tried a balky one and came to grief.

Ever since then the Governor has been satisfied to handle nothing but the reins of government. But duty now compels him to again take the saddle and hence his quest for a safe, sane and suitable mount.

Scouts are now seeking such an animal, and it is hoped one will shortly be found so that the parade can start on scheduled time. Bucking broncbos positively need not apply.

BREST-LITOVSK STORMED BY GERMANS

By International News Service.

BERLIN, Aug. 24.—By Wireless—German troops are storming the defences of Brest Litovsk. Today's report from the general staff announces the capture of Kopytow Hill to the southeast of the great fortress on the Bug River.

Other German forces continuing their pursuit of the retreating Russians have reached the Shlain-Vyssoka forts. In this region 4,500 prisoners and nine machine guns were captured.

South and east of Kovno nine officers, 2,600 men and eight machine guns have been taken by the Germans.

In the operations along the Bug River the Germans are advancing in the marshes. The Russians have evacuated their positions east of the mouth of the Pulva River.

FRENCH WAR OFFICE REPORTS FURTHER GAINS IN VOSGES

By C. F. BERTELLI,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—French troops gained more ground in the Vosges yesterday, the War Office announced this afternoon. The fighting was of a desperate character, the French making three violent attacks on the heights north of Wachrattmasennle and the Germans launching numerous counter-attacks.

The War Office communique follows:

"There were some artillery engagements during the night in the sectors to the north of Arras between the Somme and the Oise and in the Argonne.

"In the Vosges three violent combats were fought yesterday on the heights situated to the east of the Fecht to the north of Schrattmannele. Despite numerous counter attacks the enemy was unable to recapture the ground he had lost.

"At Barrenkopf we likewise maintained the gains made on the night of August 22. The Germans made a fresh attack upon our trenches on the crest of Sondernach. They were repulsed."

REVEALS THREAT TO 'GET' HUSBAND OF SLAIN WOMAN

Mrs. Oscar Russ, woman found murdered in Roxbury, and her husband who is held pending investigation.

is found the body of his murdered wife. It was clothed in a night dress, over which was a kimono. She also wore stockings and white sneakers.

The razor with which the deed had been committed was recognized by the husband as his own. The two pieces of cord which were tied around the neck caused strangulation.

Mr. Russ immediately telephoned to lieutenant Lovell at the Roxbury Crossing station. A squad of officers was sent to the house. The police found two empty beer bottles and a half filled bottle of wine in the room. The husband was questioned and then taken into custody.

He was brought to the station, where he was closeted with Inspector Jones Dennessey for over two hours. He told a straightforward story about the finding of the body and stated that he could prove an alibi.

He is employed as a painter by a Brookline concern. He told how he left his wife in their home early yesterday morning and did not return until evening, when he discovered the tragedy. He stated that he was engaged with another man during the day in painting a house in High street, Brookline.

When he left home his wife appeared to be happy and contented. He admitted, however, that they have had a number of quarrels during the past few months.

Relatives and neighbors of the couple deny any knowledge of trouble between the couple. The couple, who have resided in the house only five weeks, were not very friendly with the other tenants.

GERMANY ASKS U. S. TO DELAY ACTION

take over German interests in the event of a break between this country and the German Empire, Ambassador von Bernstorff made the following statement:

"That is absolutely absurd. Germany has consulted no other power about taking over the diplomatic affairs of Germany in the United States, because I think it absolutely impossible that there will be a break between this country and Germany.

"I look for no severance of diplomatic relations, and I certainly have no idea of war."

The German Ambassador expects to return to Washington tonight, and from the developments of the day it is evident that he confidently expects the State Department to wait for the German report upon the sinking of the Arabic before any steps are taken by this government.

REQUEST FOR DELAY LESSENS THE TENSION

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The tension of the crisis growing out of the sinking of the Arabic lessened noticeably in official quarters today following the receipt of a telegram by Secretary of State Lansing from Ambassador von Bernstorff in New York asking that this government suspend action of any sort pending receipt of the German version of the disaster.

This telegram was interpreted as the first step by Germany to prove that the torpedoing of the liner was not the "deliberately unfriendly" act which President Wilson has declared would be followed by drastic action on the part of the United States.

That the German government hopes to justify the sinking of the Arabic, involving the jeopardizing of twenty-one American lives, or that it intends to disavow this act was the conviction placed on the attache's report to his government.

Officials saw in it an earnest desire on the part of Germany to avoid an open rupture with the United States and were inclined to believe the administration would meet such an effort half way.

MATTER OF NATIONALITY.

Secretary Lansing refused positively to discuss Von Bernstorff's telegram. Beyond admitting that he had received it and that he had granted permission to the German Ambassador to make it public, he would say nothing whatever about the matter.

He was asked whether Count von Bernstorff's telegram was in response to an inquiry sent by the State Department at the direction of President Wilson, but refused point-blank to answer the question.

The question of the nationality of persons who lost their lives when the Arabic was torpedoed and sunk off the Irish coast has no bearing on the position assumed by the United States. Secretary Lansing made this plain for the first time today. He was asked whether the American citizenship of Dr. Edmund Wood of Wisconsin, one of the two reported among the victims, has not been questioned and the point raised that he was a British subject.

"I do not think that the nationality of Dr. Wood is material to the issue now involved," said the secretary.

The fact that all of the accounts so far seem to agree that the Arabic was torpedoed without warning has caused the administration to go back to its original contention that lives of American citizens must not be endangered.

Secretary Lansing stated today that he had received another dispatch from Ambassador Page containing additional details of the sinking. He said, however, that the information in the possession of the department was still so fragmentary that it has been decided to withhold it from the public.

"There are certain facts that we want developed," the secretary said, "and we must wait until the evidence touching on them is complete."

The secretary stated that he had not received any reply from Ambassador Gerard as to whether the German Admiralty has had a report from the commander of the submarine that sunk the Arabic.

He "presumed" that the delay was due to the failure of the report to arrive.

Pro-German circles here insist that when the German side of the sinking of the Arabic is learned it will be found that the captain of the Arabic and not the submarine commander was to blame. No amplification of this statement is obtainable, nor will any of the sources fathering it consent to be quoted on the subject.

BRITISH FLEET OF 30 SHELLS ZEEBRUGGE

BERLIN, Aug. 24.—The general staff's report today gave some details of the bombardment of Zeebrugge, Belgium, Monday, by British warships.

It asserted that no material damage had been caused by the bombardment. One person was killed and six injured. Three Belgians were wounded by stray shells.

A French biplane has been brought down near Leo, south of Dixmude, the report stated.

BRITISH GOLD ON THE ARABIC, GERMAN AGENCY EXPLAINS

By International News Service.

BERLIN, Aug. 24 (by wireless).—The Arabic was an English ship weighed down with gold bullion on her way to purchase arms and munitions of war to be used against Germany and her allies, says the Overseas News Agency today. It carried a large amount of gold in payment for war material. The fact that passengers and crew were saved and that there was ample time to lower boats and put all aboard shows there was no catastrophe.

If some passengers were drowned it is very regretable, but it was probably the fault of leaking boats. As in previous cases "it was no fault of German submarines—if a submarine, and not a mine, sunk the Arabic."

BRING BODY OF MISS BURKE, AUTO VICTIM, TO BOSTON

Miss Mary Burke of Commonwealth avenue, Brookline, who was killed in Hingham auto accident.

The body of Miss Mary Burke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Burke of No. 1020 Commonwealth avenue, Brookline, killed in an automobile accident on the Hingham road to Nantasket at 6:40 p. m. yesterday, was brought to Boston today.

Funeral services will be held Thursday from No. 1130 Commonwealth avenue. There will be a high mass of requiem in St. Aidan's Church, Brookline, at 9 a. m.

Miss Burke was a sister-in-law of former Alderman Patrick Bowen of Boston, former Councilor Jeremiah J. McNamara of South Boston and Joseph Day, proprietor of the Rossmore Hotel. She was spending the Summer at Nantasket Beach with her sisters.

Mrs. Bowen, Mrs. Ray, Mrs. McNamara and Miss Burke were in Mr. McNamara's automobile, in charge of John Fitzmaurice, chauffeur for Mr. McNamara, and had just returned from Arlington.

As the machine came down from Murphy's Hill, Hingham, the bob wheel and steering gear snapped, and the machine struck a telegraph pole.

Miss Burke was tossed out, and her head struck the pole a glancing blow, causing a fracture of the skull. She was hurried to the Sylvester Hospital in Allerton, where she died.

Mrs. Patrick Burke, seventy-three years old, was told of the accident today. Mr. Burke, father of the girl, did not know of the death of his daughter till noon, when arrangements were made to remove the body to No. 1130 Commonwealth avenue. The Burke home at No. 1020 Commonwealth avenue is being painted, and the furniture is not in position.

U. S. SOLDIERS FIRED ON BY MEXICANS

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—General Funston today reported to the War Department that Mexican troops had fired on American soldiers at Lochiel, Arizona, the second time within a few days. No one was wounded. The Mexican commander sent word to the commanding American officer at Lochiel that it would not happen again.

Dispatches today from El Paso said that General Villa, finding himself whipped in every engagement has has fought during the last four months, and facing what will be the crucial battle of his career, has sent, through an American messenger, an urgent appeal for help to General Emiliano Zapata, commander of Conventionist troops in the south.

The messenger left El Paso early today for General Zapata's headquarters, via Galveston and Vera Cruz. Zapata will be told that the only way to save Villa's army from annihilation at Torreon is for him to send not less than 4,000 Zapatistas northward to attack the rear of the powerful Carranzista army now operating against that city.

"If you do not do this," says Villa's message to Zapata, "Carranza's bandits may succeed in whipping my army, in which event they will turn right back and go down and whip you."

MARANVILLE OF POLICE FORCE WINS RACE

SPRINGFIELD, Aug. 24—Rabbit Maranville's brother, Patrolman Ward C. Maranville, figured in a Wild West chase through Springfield streets early today, firing three shots at a fugitive whom he pursued up a fire escape, across roof, down through a building and out through a plate glass window.

The fugitive was William J. McCann, thirty. He was arrested by officers who were informed on an alarm that some one was trying to break into the Carew street schoolhouse.

The patrol wagon was called, and with Patrolman Maranville on guard the ride to the station began. As the wagon passed the corner of Main street and Harrison avenue McCann made a headlong dive across Patrolman Maranville's knees, out the door of the wagon and into the street. And the race was on. The police won.

Queen Sympathizes with Boxer Monroe

By International News Service.

LONDON, Aug. 24. — Queen Alexandria on a visit to the Netley Hospital conversed with the men of Princess Patricia's regiment, especially Jack Monroe, well known boxer.

The Queen expressed hope his wounds would not prevent him from resuming boxing when the war was over.

Penniless Sisters End Lives With Gas

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24—Penniless, hungry and without friends Mary and Minnie Burrows, sisters, took the "easiest way out" of their troubles. Their bodies were found by the police early today in bed in their little home here. Clasped in each other's arms they turned on the gas.

Billerica Tax Up $6.

The tax rate for Billerica will be $29 on $1,000 this year, an increase of $6 per $1,000 over last year's rate. It is the highest tax rate the town has ever known.

To Put On Flesh And Increase Weight

GOOD ADVICE FOR THIN PEOPLE.

"It certainly gives me more anything to be able to gain a few pounds and stay that way," declare many thin men and women, who's result is usually an impossible despite past failures. Most thin people are victims of malnutrition and cannot digest enough of the fatty elements of food from being taken up by the blood as they are when the power of digestion is normal. Instead of getting into the blood much of the fat and flesh producing elements pass in the form of waste, and so pass from the body as waste.

The object of treatment should be to produce a healthy, normal amount of fat the flesh making food elements must be so prepared in the digestive processes that the blood will accept and distribute them throughout the body. There is a preparation called Sargol which works on this basis and which is sold by nearly every druggist on a positive guarantee of weight increase or money back. Hundreds have testified to weight increase from its use.

Sargol does not of itself make fat, but is simply a combination of ingredients of acknowledged merit, that, taken with meals seems to better enable the digestive organs to separate the fattening elements of the food and to prepare them in a form which the blood can readily assimilate. Sargol comes in tablet form, is very compact and pleasant to take, acting in a perfectly natural and harmless manner. Most druggists everywhere who are authorized to refund the full purchase price if weight increase is not obtained.

NOTE—Sargol is recommended only as a flesh builder and while it has proved a excellent remedy in cases of nervousness, indigestion and general stomach disorders care should be taken to avoid using it who do not want to increase weight.

GOVERNORS OF THE NATION GIVEN FORMAL WELCOME BY THE CITY AND COMMONWEALTH

Quinty and Samuel D. Felker of New Hampshire and John Franklin Fort of New Jersey.

SPRY'S ADDRESS.

Governor Spry, in his response to the welcoming addresses, said in part:

"It is an honor to be chosen to respond to the hearty welcome given us by Governor Walsh. It will be a great pleasure for each Governor here present to accept the hospitality so generously extended.

"We have come here to commune one with another, and each one will take back to his home respective some new ideas of value.

"One feature of these conferences which has appealed to me as of equal importance with discussions of national questions is the social element. It has meant much to me to shake the hands of my brothers from other States, and to feel a comradeship which otherwise would not have been possible.

"On behalf of my fellows, the chief executives of many States, I express again gratitude and appreciation for the reception given us here in Boston and for the splendid arrangements made for our comfort and entertainment."

HART RESPONDS.

Professor Albert Bushnell Hart of Harvard, who responded in behalf of the Educational Conference, said, in part:

"If Massachusetts has ever been satisfied with its Legislature, it must have been before I came to the State, twenty-nine years ago.

"We feel that the position of the Governor in any State is an onerous one. Efficiency is part of the solution of governorship. If you pay men a salary, you must expect that they will be equal to the requirements of that salary.

"We must learn the lesson that we are a nation of hard-headed business men. We expect results from the money expended.

"We are in deep water now, whether we are at peace or at war. We must get rid of graft and corruption. Every man is needed, and the right expenditures of every cent of money."

Mayor Curley, who was delayed in arriving, spoke a most cordial welcome to the visitors for the city of Boston. The Mayor recounted his recent trip to the West, in which he said he was impressed by the glowing optimism on the further side of the Mississippi.

SAME OPTIMISM.

Massachusetts has the same optimism, he said, but it does not find such strenuous utterance. Its historic traditions, he said, are evidences of the Bay State's progressiveness in time of need. He told the visitors that Boston leads the world in wool, cotton, confectionery and other productions, and he confidently expected the distinguished guests would find ample evidence of its hospitality.

The conference then settled down to its real business. Former Governor Elias M. Ammons of Colorado delivered the first address of the conference. His subject was, "Development of the West." His address was followed by a brief discussion of the subject by the delegates. The morning session of the conference was then adjourned.

As early as 9 o'clock all roads were leading to the State House. That structure was decked in its best by way of a mute welcome to the visitors. The welcome voiced by the throngs that watched the individual Governors appear was not mute, however. It was whole-hearted and cordial-voiced.

As each Governor appeared — accompanied always by his military aide in full dress uniform — he was subjected to a rapid fire by the snapshot artists in front of the State House.

Once inside the marble corridors he was taken direct to Governor Walsh's chambers on the third floor. Governor Walsh met the Governors in his old chambers and not in the new executive suite in the new wing.

After meeting Governor Walsh the Governors were taken to the new suites of offices, where in the reception and lounging rooms they proceeded to get acquainted with each other.

Forms: Governor Francis E. McGovern of Wisconsin was the first to greet Governor Walsh today.

During the morning session the wives, daughters and the like occupied reserved places in the President's gallery, in the rear of the chamber facing the rostrum. The gallories on either side were reserved for spectators, and the chairs on the floor behind the "circle" were in part occupied by the aides in uniform.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS.

John Franklin Fort, former Governor of New Jersey, presides at the afternoon session. Former Governor William Hodges Mann of Virginia speaks to the conference on "Governors' Initiative." Governor Robert L. Williams of Oklahoma talks on the subject, "The Function of the Executive to the Budget," and Governor Moses Alexander of Idaho has for his subject, "The Short Ballot."

At the close of the morning session Governor Walsh was host at a luncheon at the Hotel Touraine to the members of the conference. The Misses Walsh, sisters of the Governor, gave a luncheon to the visiting ladies at the Hotel Lenox.

LADIES ON AUTO TOUR.

While the Governors and former Governors returned to the State House for the afternoon session at 2 o'clock, the ladies were taken on an automobile tour to the South Shore resorts, under the guidance of a committee of which State Treasurer Charles L. Burrill is chairman.

Concluding the afternoon session, the conference members go on an auto tour of the Metropolitan Park system, including a visit to Concord and Lexington, where the fight for freedom was baptized by the blood of the farmer-patriots of Massachusetts.

The trips of the Governors and of the ladies merge at Cambridge at 5:30 o'clock, when luncheon will be served at Memorial Hall by the Cambridge Board of Trade.

Another social fixture of the conference, the reception in the Hall of Flags, at 8:30 tonight, brings the day's round to a close. Governor Walsh conducts the reception, for the people of the State, to the visiting Chief Executives, the other members of the conference, and their ladies. For this the Hall of Flags is artistically dressed. Invitations have been issued by the Governor and his committees.

GOVERNOR WALSH'S ADDRESS OF WELCOME TO GOVERNORS

Governor Walsh, in calling to order the opening session of the Governors' Conference in the Senate Chamber at the State House, delivered the welcome of the Commonwealth to the Commonwealth's distinguished guests.

He voiced the warm greeting of Massachusetts to every man of them; told of his hopes that both the States represented here and the home State of Massachusetts may benefit from the interchange of views; spoke of the growing tendency to give the Governor more power and to hold him more directly responsible, and laid emphasis on the power of publicity to drive a recalcitrant Legislature to obey the popular will.

Governor Walsh said, in part:

"Members of the Governors' Conference, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"I may say without exaggeration that the office which I hold—an office as most of you are well aware that is not entirely free from perplexing difficulties—has brought me few pleasures as unalloyed as the satisfaction I feel today in the privilege of extending to you, in the name and on the behalf of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, a most cordial greeting and hearty welcome. I can assure you that the welcome, though official has nothing perfunctory about it.

"Massachusetts, the mother of States, has contributed her sons and daughters to the citizenship of every other Commonwealth. This gathering is therefore in a sense a home-coming.

"We hope that you will find both pleasure and profit in your visit, and you will see something in the results of our industry and enterprise to commend and emulate, and much to enjoy; and much to satisfy you that we are doing our part to make this great experiment in democratic self-government a complete success. We confidently expect in our turn to gather, as these meetings go on, many suggestions of great value from your impressions of us and from your reports of experiments in several commonwealths.

"Is it not, when we think of it, a notable testimony to the inestimable value of these free institutions of ours, that while half the world is in the throes of a mad and horrible convulsion, we, the chosen representatives of peaceful and happy millions, should be gathered here to study the great questions of peace.

"The founders of our nation, in their natural reaction from monarchial government and arbitrary rule, hedged in the chief executive with limitations that tended to reduce him to an ornamental figure-head; but of late it is becoming generally understood that the business efficiency indispensable for good government can only be secured by concentrating power and responsibility.

"It is no longer the prevalent doctrine that the executive must sit aloof from legislation; on the contrary, the general expectation and demand is that he shall by all proper means press upon the legislature the reforms which public opinion graves.

"Strong men have shown how even under existing constitutional limitations it is possible for a president or a governor, if only he has the people behind him, to mould reluctant legislatures to the popular will—not indeed by the use for ulterior purposes of the appointing power, a weapon far more dangerous in the recoil than in the discharge, but solely by virtue of the publicity which he can always command.

"You welcome, to you, gentlemen, warm and cordial as it would be in any case, is made still heartier by our lively sense of the far-reaching benefits which we confidently expect as the ultimate result of your visit.

"We expect in the first place that you will teach us your methods of attacking certain problems which we have as yet failed to solve, for example, how to develop our neglected agricultural resources and revive our decadent agriculture, and will teach our farmers how to co-operate in the production and distribution of the food products, to the mutual advantage.

LABOR LEGISLATION.

"We hope and expect that, as you study our social and industrial conditions, you will be so impressed by the advantages that have resulted to employer and employe alike from the ill ful labor legislation in which Massachusetts takes especial pride.

"I wish to extend a most cordial welcome also to you, the members of the conference on universities and public service, who are to consider and advise upon a branch of the great social uplift movement of our age that is second in importance to hardly any other. Your coming is most timely, since Massachusetts is just embarking in an attempt to extend the scope of our free education to the full limit of the people's need.

"We bespeak with confidence your advice and assistance in this movement.

"In the name of the people of Massachusetts, I welcome you most heartily, not only to our public places and institutions, to our marts of commerce and hives of industry, to all the varied attractions of our urban and rural life, but to the hearts and homes of our people also.

"I know of no similar event that has ever aroused such a general interest among us as the news of your coming. Our citizens have awaited this day with especial pleasure because of the opportunity it affords them to show the respect and admiration which they feel for the splendid and vigorous commonwealths which you severally represent, and to manifest the spirit of brotherhood which they entertain toward the people of every one of the sister States.

"I hope I may be pardoned if I take this opportunity to express my personal appreciation of the enthusiasm with which they have co-operated with me in preparing to give you a fitting welcome and make your visit memorable.

"They have opened their hearts and their purses also, and have authorized me to draw upon their private resources as well as the public treasury to whatever extent may be necessary to insure you a full experience of the genuine Massachusetts hospitality.

"Well as I thought I knew our people, the warmth of their feeling on this occasion has surprised me, and possess my powers of expression.

"The Old Bay State opens her arms to you in true motherly fashion, and seeks to manifest in every possible way her pride in your achievement in nation-building and her joy in your wonderful prosperity. May your enjoyment and satisfaction in your visit equal ours in welcoming you among us—I can voice no better wish."

SIDELIGHTS ON THE CONFERENCE OF GOVERNORS

Francis E. McGovern, former Governor of Wisconsin, was the first of the distinguished visitors to be greeted by Governor Walsh at the State House this morning. As prosecuting officer of Milwaukee County, McGovern unearthed county and local graft and sent a few of the grafters to jail. Then he was elected Governor and served two terms. He is a bachelor and some say as good looking as Governor Walsh. He has a mustache, a la William T. Jerome. His stand on women's suffrage is a secret with him.

* * *

Former Governor Elias M. Ammons of Colorado had no manuscript for his speech. Unfortunately, he is nearly blind. He spoke on "Development of the West" and with great earnestness.

* * *

Robert Taylor, for thirty years elevator man at the State House, had his car all draped out with flowers and flags. Robert ran the first elevator in the State House. He knows 'em all by their first names.

* * *

Former Governor Foss was on the scene early. He came in with Governor Fielder of New Jersey and Mrs. Fielder, former Governor Cole Blease of Georgia and former Governor Albert W. Gilchrist of Florida. The "Old Boy" shook hands cordially with his former running mate, but present opponent, David I. Walsh.

* * *

* * *

Former Governor John A. Dix of New York might properly be called the Beau Brummel of the conference. With a black-and-white checked suit he created the "noise" of the day. Some said he was not at all unlike Jack Mazon in appearance.

* * *

Among those present was John F. Fitzgerald. He made himself known.

* * *

The Misses Mary and Katherine Walsh assisted the Governor in receiving. When the Conference began they sat in the Senate Chamber with Mrs. Fielder, Mrs. Alva Adams and other ladies of the Conference.

* * *

Gilchrist is the biggest man, physically, of the Conference. He is running for Congress "down home."

* * *

Governor Spaulding of New Hampshire came with former Governor Quinby. Among later arrivals was the once Democratic Governor of the Granite State, Samuel D. Felker of Rochester.

* * *

Governor Spry of Utah has thin, grayish-brown whiskers. So has Dr. Lester Howard, Commissioner of Animal Industry. Both wear glasses and look alike.

THE FAIR GOVERNORS OF THE GOVERNORS TO BE ENTERTAINED BY BOSTON HOSTS

While city and State officials have made elaborate plans to entertain the delegates to the Governors' Conference, the women folks of the visiting Governors are not being overlooked, for it is recognized that these leading representatives of American womanhood are the governors of the governors.

At least a dozen Governors brought along their wives and in some cases their daughters or other feminine members of their families and the receptions to the first ladies of the different States equalled that of their husbands, fathers or brothers.

The first of the series of entertainments for the special benefit of the ladies took place today, when the Misses Walsh, sisters of the Governor, gave a tea at Hotel Lenox for the visitors.

After the tea and while the men were discussing matters of State, the visiting ladies were taken on an auto tour of the South Shore. This evening they will join the men at a supper at Memorial Hall, Harvard College.

Tomorrow morning while the conference is in session the ladies will go shopping. Experienced Boston shoppers will conduct the visitors to the lair of the bargain. Later they will review the battleship fleet on board the Wyoming, and then drop in on the Italian fests of Mrs. John Hays Hammond of Gloucester. They will end the day with a big banquet at the Eastern Yacht Club at Marblehead.

Thursday morning the ladies will make a tour of the historical places of Boston and have lunch at the Women's City Club. They will have special facilities for reviewing the military parade and attend the big banquet at the Copley Plaza in the evening. Afterward the ladies go by auto to the big water carnival at Waltham.

TO VISIT WAYSIDE INN.

Friday the visiting ladies take in Concord and Lexington with lunch at the Wayside Inn, Sudbury. Friday afternoon they go down the harbor on the Rose Standish, to Pemberton.

Among those who make up the party of visiting ladies are Mrs. George A. Carlson of Colorado, Mrs. Moses Alexander and daughter, Miss Lena Alexander, of Idaho; Mrs. Edward F. Dunne and daughter of Illinois, Mrs. Arthur Capper of Kansas, Mrs. Oakley C. Curtis of Maine, Mrs. Phillips Goldsborough of Maryland, Mrs. James F. Fielder of New Jersey, Mrs. Charles S. Whitman of New York, Mrs. Frank B. Willis of Ohio, Mrs. Frank M. Byrne of South Dakota, Mrs. William Spry of Utah, Mrs. Ernest Lister of Washington and her daughter, Miss Florences Lister.

Mrs. Charles S. Whitman, wife of the Governor of New York, and their two children, Olive and Charles S. Whitman, Jr.

CLAIMS RESULTS SURE, MARVELOUS

Tried Plant Juice and Results Were Beyond Anything He Expected.

Plant Juice, the new herbal system tonic, has been introduced into a large number of great American cities and everywhere it has met with tremendous success. Plant Juice is purely an herbal preparation and is proving the greatest, every produced. Once the public of a city tests it they know its merit and a great demand for it follows. It is particularly a tonic for city people, where modern modes and customs of life lead to various forms of debility—to nervous, blood, stomach and kidney troubles, in fact, to a pentunes up as does no other tonic. It gives immediate relief and lasting results. All forms of stomach, liver and kidney troubles and blood disorders are relieved by Plant Juice. It is a true specific for debility and organic weakness in men and women. It insures to bring a return of buoyant spirits of cheerfulness and good health.

Selecting at random from a mass of written testimonials is that of Mr. William J. Gaskin, who resides at No. 52 Bench Street and is a well-known employe of one of the big express companies of this city, and whose integrity is unquestioned. He states:

"I have suffered from stomach trouble, indigestion and dyspepsia for over 10 years; was also troubled with my kidneys and liver. I had severe nervous headaches and pains in my back and was so restless and nervous that I could not get any sleep at night whatever. My food fermented in my stomach, causing gas and a heavy, bloated condition and I had a hard lump in the pit of my stomach. I heard about Plant Juice and have taken one bottle of it and I can truthfully say that I have no more aches or pains of any kind; no gas or bloating and my liver acts fine. I feel like a new man. I can recommend Plant Juice to anyone, for it has cured me all right enough."

The Plant Juice Man is at the Liggett Drug Co.'s Store, corner of Washington and Avon Streets, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

ZURICH, Aug. 24.—The Austria Swiss frontier has been closed by Austria. Important troop transfers are in progress.

McNeill Medals for Heroic Deeds

The George E. McNeill medals, commemorating George E. McNeill of Boston, who died in 1906, were presented today in Detroit to a woman and two men found to have heroically saved life during the past year. The medals were presented at the meeting of the International Association of Casualty and Surety Underwriters at Detroit to Mrs. Lillian M. Coburn of Susanville, Cal.; George C. Poe of Scottsville, Ark., and D. J. A. Hanna of Carnegie, Pa.

New Mexico Trains Blocked by Washout

CORONA, N. M., Aug. 24.—Two miles of the track of the El Paso & Southwestern Railroad was washed out here today by a cloudburst. The west-bound California and the east-bound Golden State Limited of the Rock Island Railroad were caught on either side of the washout and it will be from twelve to twenty-four hours before the two trains can proceed.

No Grape Juice at Lansing's Dinner

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Grape juice took a back seat at the dinner given by Secretary Lansing to Senor Cardoso, the Brazilian Minister to Mexico, where wine was served to the guests. He served his guests with wine and like beverages.

MAYOR AIDS 75 STRANDED HOSTLERS

Mayor Curley today came to the relief of the seventy-five stranded American horsemen who say they were shipped to Boston from Montreal and denied wages promised them by the Lampert & Holt line of steamers.

The Mayor ordered William P. Fowler, overseer of the poor, to see that the men were fed and housed until Friday.

The men come from Virginia, and Virginia Congressmen have been requested to take the matter up and arrange for their transportation home. They shipped from Newport News, under an agreement that they would be brought home free. They say that upon arrival in England they were compelled to sign articles for a passage back to Montreal instead of Newport News.

They engaged Attorney Daniel T. O'Connell, who said today: "These men have had a raw deal. They are clearly entitled to damages. The next thing is to collect them.

"If I can find a ship of the line in the harbor I will have her seized."

Edison Sees Seven Years of Prosperity

By International News Service.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 24.—Thomas A. Edison in an interview predicts seven years of unprecedented prosperity for the United States, and urges Wilson to go slow on Germany. He also predicts that the European war will be carried on twelve more months.

He expresses in characteristic fashion his disapproval of the submarine activities of the German navy. He declares that he does not expect the United States to plunge into war over the action of a "war mad" group.

"Leaving out entirely the question of war industries activities, which are simply a hectic flush and do not give a complexion which indicates the healthy advance of commercial enterprises in the United States, I am satisfied this country has embarked upon a seven-years' cruise of prosperity," said Mr. Edison.

ELEVATED WILL DIVERT CARS FOR PARADE

The Elevated announces that during the hours of the militia parade on Thursday it will be necessary to change routes and schedules of many lines.

No surface cars will be operated, north or south, on Washington street between Hanover and Boylston streets from 12:30 until the end of the procession. Transfer will be issued for the tunnel stations at Essex and Boylston streets.

Service on Charles street between Leverett street and Park square will be discontinued at 11:30, and although it will be impossible to operate the South End-West End line, some of the Charles street service will be run through Cambridge street and Bowdoin square.

After 12:30 cars on Tremont street and Columbus avenue north of Dartmouth street will be diverted via Dartmouth street and the park way to and from the subway.

No cars will be run in Postoffice square, Devonshire or State streets after 12:30, but passengers may transfer at Dewey square to elevated trains at the South Station.

The City Point-Kendall square line will be run via the subway and the City Point-Back Bay line will be run via Washington and Northampton streets and Massachusetts avenue.

Worcester and Framingham cars will be run to and from Berkeley street and St. James avenue.

PLANS OF REALTY MEN FOR THE ENTERTAINMENT OF VISITING GOVERNORS

The Board of Directors of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange have completed plans for the entertainment of the Governors.

The Exchange function on the afternoon and evening of next Friday, which will constitute the final feature of the week's program, will take the form of an Old-Fashioned New England Clambake, as calculated to afford the visiting Governors, especially those from the South and West, an utterly novel entertainment.

The Exchange has chartered for its exclusive use the steamer Rose Standish, which will convey to Pemberton Point the official party, including the Governors and their ladies, members of the Exchange with ladies, and invited guests.

The House of Governors with the members of their party will become the guests of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, August 27. The visitors will be taken by automobile to Commonwealth Pier, the largest pier in the United States, and there will be received by the Directors of the Port of Boston, likewise guests of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange, who will outline to the visitors the proposed development of the Port of Boston, explaining the mammoth projected dry dock, escorting them to the Fish Pier and elsewhere.

Tech's Band will furnish music. John J. Martin, president of the Exchange, will preside as toastmaster, and at the conclusion of the clambake there will be addresses.

The Massachusetts Exchange, the publication of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange, will publish a special number inscribed to the House of Governors. For each of the ladies of the function appropriate souvenirs will be provided.

The directors of the Exchange, the executive committee and the subcommittees will hold daily sessions this week.

Cotton Growers Plan Relief Steps

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Southern cotton growers are planning steps for their own relief. The announcement by Secretary McAdoo that the treasury will lend $50,000,000 to safeguard this year's cotton crop is pleasing, but far from satisfying.

Placing of cotton on the contraband list by Great Britain and her allies is being denounced by the Southern Senators and Representatives and many of them make it plain that if the administration does not file a most drastic protest they will make the entire question a national political issue.

German Protest Against Expansion

By International News Service.

ZURICH, Aug. 24.—The Socialist newspaper Volkrecht publishes today what purports to be the memorial presented to the German Reichstag by the Neues Vaterland Society protesting against the territorial annexation proposals made by some German leaders. It asserts: "It is madness to imagine that Germany can conquer Great Britain and Russia."

INFANTRYMEN TO PITCH CAMP ON THE COMMON

In order that the public may have an opportunity to see how thoroughly a militia company is drilled, Adjutant-General Cole has arranged to have the camp of an infantry company established on the Common tomorrow night.

Company C of the Eighth Regiment, a Cambridge company, has been assigned to the duty, and under the command of Captain Cushing, will give a demonstration of a day in camp.

The company will establish a shelter tent camp, illustrating how an independent company, with its own wagon, carrying its rolls and equipment, can make a temporary home for itself in a short time.

A company kitchen will be set up, but for the purpose of demonstrating how the men would have to get along in case the kitchen equipment could not be transported, the militiamen will cook their individual meals over small fires, using the mess equipment that is carried in the haversack.

After supper the men will rest until it is time to retire. At 5:30 the following morning the first call will be sounded, and a half-hour later the reveille. Physical exercises will follow, and at 7 the men will breakfast on a meal prepared by the cooks of the company kitchen. At 8 a. m. there will be an inspection of quarters, and for the three-quarters of an hour following the men will go through a form of physical exercises arranged to bring about coordination between the mind and the muscles, and insure prompt obedience to commands.

Following these the company will give an exhibition drill, showing some of the movements that are executed by a company on the battlefield.

BRAVES AFTER 4TH STRAIGHT VICTORY

By RIGHT FIELD.

Admiral Fred Clarke will steer his low, rakish craft on to Braves Field this afternoon under a jury rig, for the mate have all been cut away and the ship has been driven out on to the lee shore by the gunfire of the gallant crew under Admiral Stallings and Acting Admiral Evers.

Admiral Stallings will be back today to direct his men in sinking the Pirate craft. The three engagements have all resulted in victory for the Braves and they are out for another before they tackle the Cubs.

Admiral Clarke's men will die, but never surrender. They realize that if they want any part of this current series they will have to forcibly seize that same this p. m. So the Pirates will be seen once more fighting on until the final out.

Chief Gunner's Mate "Long Tom" Hughes, hailing come to the rescue when shot and shell were flying thickest in yesterday's engagement, is quite likely to be the Braves' hurler today.

LOOKS LIKE HUGHES.

While he officially, Vice Tyler, the seven men necessary to set down were set down with neatness and dispatch.

"Rescue Tom" will probably start in today just where he left off, as he seems lately to be able to turn in a victory or a rescue stunt just about when called upon. Regan and Jess Barnes are clamoring for a chance to show their goods, too.

"Babe" Adams, a highly esteemed Pirate gunner, having fired his last shot for this visit, "Red Robert" Harmon may be called on to take aim at the plate with Southpaw Cooper as second choice.

The Braves have now taken five out of six on their home stay and seem all lined up to go great guns during the remainder of their tarrying. The past twenty-four hours has seen their hold on third place grow more secure and unless the Phillies and Robins have a care the Braves will fast be edging toward the heights of glory.

With the Braves all set to keep pegging away out there every day the team may be able to go out on the road just before Labor Day so fixed that its future can be pretty accurately forecasted.

SNODGRASS IS OFF RIGHT.

The coming of Snodgrass is expected to give the Braves an added punch. "Snod," while not having a very impressive batting average for this year, counts on adding a generous number of points to it while he is laboring to keep the Braves in the thick of things. He certainly was heard from yesterday.

Once Snodgrass gets on the paths he can be counted upon to get around as far as crafty purloining, a speedy pair of legs and circumstances will permit.

With a good many of the other teams juggling their lineups around for the final scramble, the Braves seem to have their material just about in hand.

"Four straight" is the countersign at Allston today.

Sidelights on Sports

By RIGHT FIELD.

B. A. J., a Worcester postcarder, inquires to know how Cutshaw of Brooklyn made two safe hits in one time at bat in the game with the Cubs July 16.

IT seems that while the ball was coming up from the box Umpire Klem called "time." Despite this, Cutshaw swung at the offering and hit safely. He was kept at the plate and given another shot when play was resumed. This time he again "hit 'er where they weren't."

PRESIDENT GAFFNEY has invited the children of the playgrounds of Greater Boston to be his guests in the third pavilion on next Monday. The Boston children had their innings on Independence Day. Now the youngsters of the suburbs are to have a chance.

PRESIDENT GAFFNEY is in New York today for the National League meeting, at which the "Rube" Benton case will come up.

HE will be back tomorrow with a contract for Fred Snodgrass to sign. "Snod" having agreed on the terms for which he will patrol the centre garden.

SNOW seemed welcome to our city, judging from the hearty applause he drew. He cashed in with the winning run.

so his first day was one grand success.

WELL, here comes "Sea Lion" Charley Hall pulling a comeback. Those who remember how he barked for a Red Sox victory in the 1912 World's Series are glad to see that his climb to the top of the heap in the American Association has led to a contract with the Cards. The "Sea Lion" once pitched some tidy games for the Red Sox.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY LANE of the Red Sox, speaking as a "fan" and not as assistant secretary, has weighed all the pros and cons and now comes right out and says: "It's the Sox to cop."

WORLD'S SERIES applications are keeping Mr. Lane busy while Carrigan's crew is on the road.

PRESIDENT LANNIN of the Red Sox was floored to death by "Dutch" Leonard's new strike-out record at the expense of the Browns.

HANS WAGNER, whose big teammates call "Jake" in the field, spent some time in "fanning" with Umpires Byron and Eason before the game.

SNODGRASS got his first put-out as a Brave in the sixth inning. It was a fly from Gibson.

Broadway Hears Marquard Is to Go

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Broadway has it today that Johnny McGraw, manager of the Giants, is so disgusted at the way the Giants are going in the race that he has asked waivers on "Rube" Marquard, the hi-and-out Southpaw. Though Marquard entered the box game after Demaree and Sallee were hard at it, he has been unsteady for the past two campaigns. When Mr. McGraw refused to confirm or deny the rumor he is preparing to count ten upon Richard's form, but it is reported in "knowing" quarters that waivers are sought on Marquard and that Richard is on to how Murray and Snodgrass into other fields.

SOX OPEN CRUCIAL DETROIT SERIES

DETROIT, Aug. 24.—The stage is set for the big game of the year out on Navin Field today. It is the first one of the series of three combats between the Boston Red Sox, occupants of first place in the exciting Johnson scramble, and the Tigers, who are holding on to the place position in particularly game, likewise impressive fashion.

Detroit "fans" have it that their pets are traveling on high, and that if they can get away with a victory today it is going to smell a pennant for Detroit. The charges of Hughie Jennings have captured ten of their last eleven games and it took King Walter Johnson to hand them their one black mark in the big bundle.

The Tigers were idle yesterday, and as Hughie's hurling corps is none too heavily stocked, the day's vacation was welcomed. The day before Dauss, Dubuc, Steen, since decorated with the Order of the Can, Oldham and Boland were used in the twin bill with the Nationals.

Only Dauss won the route, and as George had to apply the brush in order to dispose of Gallia, he must remain on the sidelines until Thursday, when the series terminates.

Dauss has always been a big jinx to Bill Carrigan's artillery and the enemy will scarcely regret the fact he is not fresh for the kick-off. Dubuc worked most of the way against Johnson in the show Sunday that went against the Tigers, but as that Monsieur Gene has never had much luck against Boston and may miss the hotting altogether.

Yea, Bo, the supporters of the Tigers have the hunch that their pets are going to kick up a big fuss in the series and bag two decisions, sure. Jennings also claims that he is going to be Detroit's size of the spoils.

Worcester Club Is to Remain on Road

WORCESTER, Aug. 24.—The Worcester (New England League) club plays its last game at Boulevard Park today. The season has been a disastrous one and the club will play all its remaining games on the road. This is no new experience for Owner Jesse Burkett. When he was with the old Cleveland club, being its boss hitter, the "Spiders" spent one season playing its games away from home, so bad was the Cleveland business. Burkett & Company are looking for a buyer.

Herman Nickerson Resigns.

Herman C. Nickerson has resigned as secretary of the Braves, a position he has filled for the past three years. It is reported that he intends returning to the newspaper field.

Byrne Injured and Out of Phils' Front

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—Third Baseman Bobby Byrne of the Phillies will be lost to Manager Moran for at least ten days as a result of breaking the little finger on his left hand while knocking down a wild throw from Lobert in the ninth inning of the first game with the Cubs. Milton Stock will cover third during Byrne's absence.

GALLANT MEETS A TARTAR IN CALLAHAN

ATLAS A. A. PROGRAM.

Gilbert Gallant, Chelsea, vs. Frankie Callahan, Brooklyn, twelve rounds.
"Mickey" Brown, Malden, vs. Tommy Shea, New Haven, six rounds.
Johnny Emery, Somerville, vs. Joe Souza, Cambridge, six rounds.
Young Blades, Woonsocket, vs. Young Cinney, North End, six rounds.

THE above is the program of matches on tap at the Atlas A. A. tonight. While chief interest surrounds the main bout between Gilbert Gallant and Frankie Callahan, there should be some rare sport shown in the semi-final match between "Mickey" Brown of Malden and Tommy Shea of New Haven.

Last week's semi-final bout between McKea and Noonan really resulted in a better fight than the main bout, and while this is hardly expected to result tonight the bout between the semi-finalists should nevertheless be a lu ulty fight.

Gallant and Callahan reported in excellent condition at the club today. Gallant will have Mike Glover in his corner.

GILBERT has not lost a fight since Glover has taken active interest in his training, and, with Manager McLean on the advisory committee, the Chelsea lightweight should lack nothing in perfect handling.

Callahan will have that wise old veteran of the ring game, Danny McKettrick of New York, behind him, which means that he, too, will have the best of coaching. McKettrick is a shrewd judge of a fighter, and, when he says that he has the next lightweight campion of the world in the Brooklyn boy, the "experts" feel that Callahan must be some fighter.

THREE o'clock today the boys step on the scales for weight. As each is at the best—135 pounds—they will have plenty of time to recuperate any waste energy which might have been lost through their seige of hard training.

ABE ATTELL, who formerly presided over the lightweight division, and who is with us this week in the role of hope-to-die Thespian, pulling a breezy monologue three times daily at one of our very best playhouses, says that the forthcoming Kids between "Packey" McFarland and Mike Gibbons is going to prove a flivver.

"McFarland has been out of the game so long that I fear the sport's patrons and the bunch that he is merely going on with Gibbons at Brighton Beach because of the gigantic offer he received—$12,500," declares Boxer-Actor Attell. "That's a pile of money enough to bring any body out of retirement.

"The house would be jerked a whole lot more than it is expected to a couple of fights with good boys before squaring off against Gibbons. Then its true value would be known to all."

Attell has another week on the road. Then he tries a comeback of his own, going on with Lee Houck at Gloversville, N. Y., Labor Day.

Ellen and Cima Are Winning Starters

MARBLEHEAD, Aug. 24.—The Ellen, the property of C. F. Curtis, Jr., of the Boston Yacht Club, and the Cima, owned by Guy Lowell of the Manchester Yacht Club, carried off the honors in the first day's racing for the Quincy Challenge Cup, a trophy that has been offered for small boats annually for fourteen years.

The Ellen, the defender, captured the afternoon event. The other challengers were the Sprig, owned by R. D. Benjamin and Caleb Loring of the Corinthian Yacht Club, and the Mingo, owned by Commodore H. M. Bears of the Eastern Yacht Club.

DOUBLE BILL FOR BEACH BIKE FANS

A double feature bill will top the card at the Revere cycle track tomorrow night, including a ten-mile motor-paced match race between George Wiley, Victor Linart and Georges Serve and a special professional sprint match between Pat Logan of South Boston, Willie Turville of Revere and L. C. Rollins of Everett.

As things stand now, the paced race seems to be a toss-up between all three contestants. Wiley seems to be the general favorite, although many like the chances of Linart. Others are backing Serve because of his recent good showing here. There is no doubt that Serve has the goods if he can get used to local conditions.

All three riders in the big sprint race have a large delegation of followers, and generally there seems to be a difference of opinion as to who will win.

Logan is liked because of his experience and ability to plug, while Turville and Rollins are the choice of those who favor youth. The whole field seems to be very evenly matched and it looks like a race that will be well worth going miles to see.

There seems to be some confusion as to which Rollins will start in the sprint race, and for the benefit of those fans who do not know, Manager Nat Butler wishes to announce that it is the younger of the brothers in the professional class.

Gaffney to Decide Where Benton Goes

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The board of directors of the National League will take up the Rube Benton case this afternoon. The former Red pitcher, who is now with the Pirates, is claimed by the Giants. Only two members of the board, James Gaffney of Boston and Charles Ebbetts, will decide which club has a right to the pitcher. The other members of the board are barred from voting because they have an interest in the matter and could not render an unbiased opinion.

A report is in circulation that if the board decides that Benton rightfully belongs to New York the Giants will turn over Rube Marquard to the Pirates.

Boston Typos Lose in Baseball Tourney

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—Boston, the present champions, went down to defeat in the first round of the Union Printers' eighth annual baseball tournament. The champions struck a Tartar in Xenard, and, though Smith also pitched a perf game, St. Louis made connections, 2 to 1. Drummey's hitting was a distinct feature.

In the other games Washington defeated Philadelphia, 8 to 2, while St. Paul put it over Cleveland, 8 to 4.

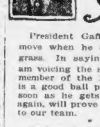
Packed in Boxes of Five



"THE RABBITS' COLUMN" By Walter J. Maranville SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

President Gaffney made a good move when he signed Fred Snodgrass. In saying this, I believe I am voicing the sentiments of every member of the Braves. Snodgrass is a good ball player, and, just as soon as he gets his bearings once again, will prove a valuable addition to our team.

* * *

McGraw knows that Snodgrass is a good ball player and hated to part with him. But under the conditions he had to. Fred fell into a bad batting slump and couldn't seem to find himself. The further he went the worse he got. The only remedy for this is a change of scenery, and, as McGraw wanted to see Fred get ahead, he let him go.

* * *

If it had not been for Snodgr as yesterday we might not have won our tilt with the Pirates. Fred came through with a timely double that opened the way for the winning run. He scored a minute later on Magee's rollicking two-base hit.

* * *

We gained another half lap on the Phillies yesterday and pulled up to within four game of Moran's crew. At the same time we made the margin between the Dodgers and ourselves only two and one-half games. Guess it doesn't look like the flag, eh?

* * *

It won't be long before we will be leading the pack. We have disposed of the Cardinals and Pirates in good shape, but now the hardest part of our test is coming—those games with the Cubs and Reds. The best the Pirates can do is to get one game out of this series.

* * *

Strange as it may seem, the Cincinnati forces, led by Buck Herzog have given us some of our hardest battles this season. Consequently, if we can dispose of them our road will be an easier one.

* * *

Of all the Western teams, the Cubs are the one that we fear the most of all. They beat us on our last trip through the West, but I am confident that we will get them this time.

* * *

As things stand we have won five out of six games with the Western teams since landing in our own home.

* * *

I am a great admirer of Honus Wagner. Honus, while well along in years, is still able to take his place with the best of them. If he wasn't, Fred Clarke wouldn't have him in the line-up. Every year a yarn goes the rounds that Honus is slowing up and will be replaced by a younger and speedier man, but at that time hasn't come yet, and I don't think it will for quite a few Summers to come.

* * *

Johnny Evers tells me that he feels much better now than he did a week ago. He claims that the cool weather here has done him a world of good. It may not be cool for some, but it is cool for us, when one considers that the thermometer nearly always hovered around the 95 mark when we were out West.

TOTH AWAITING ANSWER TO DEFI

President Gus Wise and other prominent members of the L street bathhouse Club are today awaiting an answer to their challenge issued in behalf of Charles Toth to Henry F. Sullivan, who is credited with establishing a record by swimming thirty-three miles Sunday.

According to Wise, Toth, who also essayed the long swim, did not receive the credit that was due him in the reports of the race.

Toth was taken out of the water at 1:04 Sunday morning, off Marshfield, and, according to two fishermen who were taken along because of their knowledge of conditions, he had covered at least thirty miles. The morning paper reports credited him with doing only sixteen miles. That Toth was swimming just a little over ten hours is positive, as several newspaper men were on board his launch when he was taken out.

Toth challenges Sullivan to a race of any distance and over any course in salt water.

Foster Has Dropped Five Games, Not Six

Local statisticians differing as to the pitching record of George Goose Egg Foster of the Red Sox, the following will set the "fans" right.

William Harridge, Ban Johnson's secretary, writes the AMERICAN from headquarters in Chicago that the American League records credit Foster with the loss of but four games to July 31. These were: To Yankees, April 27; to Indians, May 19; to Senators, June 22, and to Yankees, June 26. On the present trip Foster lost to the White Sox, bringing his season's losses to five only.

Counting in Sunday's victory over the Browns, Foster has won 17. So 17—5 is the mark that puts him with the select of the whole circuit.

Cue League Opens Sept. 20.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—The third annual tournament of the Interstate Three-Cushion Billiard League opens September 20, with a schedule of 600 games. Twenty-five players, representing fourteen cities, will play for thirty-six weeks. George Sisson, the veteran balk-line player, will be one of the contestants.

Jean Dale Breaks Down.

BROOKLYN, Aug. 24.—Jean Dale, the Reds' crack young right-hander, had to retire from the game with the Dodgers in the middle of the fifth inning owing to his weak leg going back on him. Manager Herzog stated today he was confident Dale would be able to take his turn on the slab by the time his club reached Boston Saturday.

RING RESULTS.

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 24.—Joe Chirk of Gloucester and K. O. Sweeney of New York battled fifteen rapid rounds to a draw at Elm Rink. Chirk put up the spryer finish.

GLOUCESTER, Aug. 21.—Al Delmont of Boston was declared the winner over Charley Sheppard of New York in their twelve-round bout at the Lyceum A. A. Delmont was the aggressor and Jumper of Boston went six rounds to a draw, while Teddy Murphy of Boston gained the decision over Tony Lorenzo of Boston, four rounds.

Baseball Over the Wire.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 24.—President Dreyfuss of the Pittsburgh baseball association, has purchased Pitcher Ed Marshilleau (Central Association) who will report to Manager Clarke about September 10.

SPOKANE, Aug. 24.—Pitcher Pat Calahan of the Spokane (Northwestern League) club has been sold to the Cincinnati Reds. He will report to Manager Herzog in Boston, Saturday.

MAYNARD, Aug. 24.—Fred (Brick) Wilder, tried out by Manager Farrizan the last time the Red Sox were at home, has signed with Providence.

LOWELL, Aug. 24.—Mat Setzer, the former Red Sox hurler who has been with Lowell all season, has been sold to the Louisville (American Association) Club.

PLAN ANOTHER MAMMOTH PIN TOURNEY HERE

Boston, the birthplace of the Atlantic Coast Bowling Association and scene of the first great tournament of the organization which amazed the bowling world by its magnitude at Mechanics' building last May, will be the scene of another big tournament for alley stars.

Though the National tournament for tenpin, candlepin and duckpin bowlers will be held in Washington, a big local tournament is planned for Boston, as well as other New England and Western and Southern cities. In all sections the organization of local chapters of the A. B. C. A., which will act as "feeders" to the National event, insure its success.

Plans for the Boston tournament were perfected some time ago, but there remains the problem of deciding in which room the event will be held. George W. Chandler is president of the local chapter, and C. M. Goodnow, vice-president of the Boston Braves, is vice-president. John J. Donovan, secretary of the Atlantic Coast Bowling Association, is secretary-treasurer, but will later part with the financial end.

Every bowling alley owner in Greater Boston is invited to ask for the tournament. It will be awarded by lot. There will be no bidding. Just a drawing. Alley owners are requested to forward applications to the secretary at No. 86 Washington street. A meeting of the alley men will be held shortly.

Miss Rosenthal Is Author Best Score

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Sixteen golfers qualified for the Western women's championship at the Midlothian Country Club out of a field of more than 100 players. The best score was returned by Miss Elaine Rosenthal of Ravisloe Club, Chicago. She played the difficult course in ninety-one strokes, 45 out and 46 in. Miss Marjorie Dodd of Cincinnati was second with ninety-nine. All the other players took 100 strokes or more.

Mrs. H. D. Hammond of Indianapolis, title holder, did not have to play in the qualifying round, entering the championship fight by virtue of her victory last year.

Hist to Hughie: States Red Sox Will Drop Two

DETROIT, Aug. 24.—The Tigers, winners of nine of their last ten games, and standing only a game and one-half behind the Red Sox, are ready for the clan of Bill Carrigan.

Declares Hughie Jennings today to the AMERICAN'S correspondent:

"We held our own with the Red Sox when we were in Boston the last time, before that series started I gave it out that if we gained an even split we would win the flag. And I have nothing to take back.

"I am not underrating Carrigan's club one particle, as I know it is a strong one in the game's every department, but my boys have the superior punch and are coming through. SURE. "Bill" James has given our slab staff exactly the mixer it needed.

"Yes, James will toe the scratch in one of the Boston games. For today I think it will be Covelesk ie, as the big fellow has always looked good against the Red Sox. Dauss is also a hard twirler for Boston to beat.

"I am confident we will make it two out of three over the Red Sox and thus land within half a game of them. Once that near the top I know we will bat our way to the championship."

Experts Nicely Scattered in Racquet Draw

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The list of 128 entrants in the National Championship tennis tournament, which begins at Forest Hills, Long Island, next Monday, broke evenly into sixty-four pairs for the first day's play. Barring some unforeseen delays the tournament will close September 7.

Maurice E. McLoughlin and R. Norris Williams, 2d, are widely separated and, playing according to form, should reach the semi-finals or finals, thus avoiding an anti-climax in the early days of the play.

Williams, who defeated McLoughlin in the final round at Newport last season, is well played in the upper half of the draw, which is a trifle stronger than the lower half. In the upper division will be Williams and Clarence Griffin and William M. Johnston of California, while the East is well represented by Karl Behr, Wallace Johnson and H. H. Hackett, in addition to the champion.

In the lower half of the draw the names of Eastern stars predominate. Nat Niles, George Church, W. M. Washburn, Dean Mathey, L. P. Pell, F. B. Alexander, Harold Throckmorton and C. C. Caner all should work through the early rounds and set a fast pace for McLoughlin in that division during the first few days of play.

"The Counter Charm"

(That "Keeps a Country Boy from Harm")

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1913, by International News Service.

THE Country Boy, growing used to the purple-twilighted, deep-canyoned city's ways, at ease in his evening clothes, drawn into the ways and the pleasures of a set that "has a good time"; gay, and hard-working, and troubled between times over his "ideals" and those he finds about him, falls in love with a long, sinuous creature like a beautiful, iridescent bird—with a small black head, delicately m[illegible] eyes, a crimson mouth, carelessly graceful attitude and an eternal cigarette!

"I counted 'em," he thought one night, when he tossed and puzzled, "and she smoked ten tonight."

He bathes in a still, black, magic pool, where the water in the light looks red, like wine. And sometimes his face longs for the crystal-clear little shallow brook that runs through a green meadow and shines over a silver sandy bottom.

He is in love with mysterious, jungious waters, but sometimes the frank little stream calls loud.

And some night, sitting so before his lady-love, he knows what the call of the silver water is! Before his troubled eyes, between him and the small dark head and the crimson lips and the sparkling shoes, takes shape a dear little figure with a fresh, sunny face, demure feet crossed, and a great bowl full of scarlet apples on her two round knees. And while she peels, she looks from a pair of gray familiar eyes.

THE COUNTER-CHARM! The girl "back home!" The dawn growing before the face of night. The sunny silver brook drowning the voice of the still, black tarn.

The girl back home—roses and milk beside poppies and wine—the little counter-charm that "keeps a man from harm."

Weariness of Waiting

No Trial Puts Stability of Character to Harder Test

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

NOTHING at all in the world is more likely to defeat its own object than hurry. From the enthusiasm that inspires you to do to the over-enthusiasm that insists on action at once, prepared or no, is just a tiny step.

There is an old proverb that says, "What one wishes for seems at the door." If you wish hard enough you may often feel that you hear the knock of your desire. But when you open the door there is nothing there.

The old story of the boy who cried "Wolf!" when there was no wolf and who perished miserably when the wolf came, illustrates this fairly well. The danger for which we watch with actual impatience becomes negligible through familiarity, and when it comes we have no protection against it.

Nothing makes a person such a pessimist as the indulgence in unfounded hopes that prove wrong. Nothing makes a person so criminally careless of danger as watching fearfully for accidents that need never have been expected, and so blinding himself to the approach of real trouble.

Waiting is one of the most trying experiences in all the world. There is no trial that puts stability of character to a more terrible test.

Have you ever waited for a letter that meant life or death, love or indifference to you? You know the postman is due at 9 in the morning. You awake at 7 and wonder how you will get through the two long hours until he comes. Somehow bathing and dressing, eating your breakfast and doing the tasks of the day bridge over the time until quarter before 9.

Then you station yourself at the window and watch for the first glimpse of the look-for messenger's gray suit. Suddenly you see him far down the street. Closer and closer he comes, weaving his path in and out of doorways. With beating heart you wait, agonizingly wondering as he comes closer and closer whether he brings what you long for.

He seems to have a tremendous mail to distribute and to do it slowly and with tortoise-like progress. Now he is at the door next to your own. He passes your house and goes to the next.

You must wait bravely for the noon mail, and the next, perhaps. The letter you look for may come tomorrow. And no blow it deals can hurt you more than did the agony of waiting for what it would tell you.

"The impatient man believes that the stars fight against him," says an old proverb. And the only bad luck in all the world is the bad luck to be weak enough to believe in luck. Luck and chance have very little to do with the period during which one waits.

You wait for a letter because the person who sent it didn't get it off in time. That has nothing to do with luck, but depends entirely on your human relationship with that person and how unselfishly and considerately he thinks of you.

To highly sensitive people who are nervous and imaginative, waiting always must be a certain strain, but they can control that strain and not let it spell agony. Because a loved one who said he was coming at 3 has not arrived at 9 does not mean he has been murdered by bandits or is not coming at all. It probably indicates he started late or was delayed by some trifling circumstance.

When you have conquered your own impatience and can bring yourself to endure impotent waiting calmly you have done much to assure yourself of peaceful life. Only the muddy women who indulge in torments of agony are those who do not yet know enough to fill in periods of waiting with some activity, so that their mind shall not, at intervals, dwell on speculating how soon the looked-for event will occur.

A book or a bit of sewing will often serve to tide over a period of waiting. Force yourself to concentrate on something other than the thing toward which you are looking. If it comes it will find you calmly waiting to receive it, and if it fails to come your conserved energy will train you to go on waiting.

Romances of Lost Fortunes

How Valuable Mines, Plays and Novels Went Begging for Takers

HAVE you ever thought of the men who failed to take fortune at its flood? The world is full of them.

There is a man today, ending his old age in poverty in Cape Town, who, a generation and more ago, refused to pay $25 for the old homestead under which the treasures of the Kimberley Mine was discovered—a mine which yielded in a few years $100,000,000.

And not long ago another man died penniless in Johannesburg who declined to buy the barren acres spread over the De Beers Mine for $15,000, a purchase which would later have produced the income of nearly $10,000,000 a year.

The famous big-game hunter, F. C. Selous, recalls the days when he might have bought for $5 an acre as much as he pleased of the South African veldt under which, though no one then dreamt it, hundreds of millions of gold were lying hidden. One single acre would have made him rich.

Similar instances of fortunes lost fill the gold field story of California.

In the theatrical world many similar stories of missed fortunes are told. Thus, in its early years of struggle, a modest $500 was refused for "Rip Van Winkle," a play which yielded $5,000,000 after Joseph Jefferson assumed the title-role; and in its infancy "The Old Homestead," which for a dozen years produced $20,000 a year, could find no purchaser for $1,500.

Many a manager turned his back on "Our Boys" before its author, H. J. Byron, was thankful to sell it outright for $1,500 to a purchaser who made $400,000 out of it in four years. "Charley's Aunt," a gold mine which has yielded hundreds of thousands, was declined by a dozen managers, and "Dorothy," after a chorus of refusals, was sold for a ridiculous sum, and soon made $20,000 a month.

More remarkable still is the story of that famous play, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," which is said to have produced over a million, and at which, before it leaped into fame, no one would look.

Similar stories are told of scores of books which have shielded rich harvests after being turned away from a dozen or more publishers' doors.

"Quantly Fair" was "declined with thanks" by a score of houses, before its merits were at last recognized. No publisher would look at "Uncle Tom's Cabin" until Mr. Jewett, on his wife's recommendation, was induced at last to give it a trial.

Even the author's husband, Professor Stowe, had such a poor opinion of it that he said:

"I shall be well pleased if Harriet gets a good black silk dress out of it."

"Tom Jones," "Sartor Resartus," and Kinglake's charming "Eothen" are among the scores of gold-winning books which were similarly cold-shouldered by one publisher after another. "Lorna Doone" suffered half a dozen rejections before a publisher at last took pity on it.

"Mr. Barnes of New York" was scorned by every publisher to whom it was offered; and Miss Marie Corelli's "Sorrows of Two Worlds" wandered about hopelessly among the publishing firms.

There Is No Secret About This Remedy for Skin Troubles

Cadum ointment, for eczema and other troubles, is one of the very few preparations that is not secret. A list of its ingredients is printed upon every carton and jar, also the name of each, which is recognized by doctors as being one of the best things known for Eczema. Another ingredient is zinc oxide, which dries up the water that forms upon sore places on the skin. Two other ingredients are petrolatum and white wax, which make a covering to protect these sore spots from the air and water. People who have itched and scratched for years get immediate relief after the first application. Trial box, 10c.—Advertisement.

Entitled to Doubt

One afternoon a man rambled into the grocery store and in about two minutes his fine trousers had wilted up a large quantity of fresh paint. He was indignant and talked to the grocer.

"It's your own fault!" indignantly declared the grocerman. "Didn't you see that sign, 'Fresh Paint'?"

"Yes, of course I did," was the peevish response of the other. "But I didn't believe it!"

"Didn't believe it!" said the grocerman, with a puzzled expression. "Was there any reason why you shouldn't have believed it?"

"Yes," quickly responded the man. "There isn't a day that I don't come in this store and see something marked 'Fresh' that isn't fresh."

Their Married Life

Warren Is Enthusiastic Over the Fair City

Copyright, 1913, International News Service.

HELEN felt exhausted from a sleepless night, and as they steamed into Oakland she felt ready to drop. The thought of exercising during the day nauseated her, and yet her weakness made her furious with herself.

Warren was busy getting the bags and wraps together, and Helen watched the men on the water without much enthusiasm, for it made her head ache worse than ever. She could hear Louise exclaiming over the beauty of the famous San Francisco Bay, and she got up wearily enough in response to Warren's remark that they had arrived.

The crowd mingled good naturedly on the platform, but Warren made a path for her and Louise, and Bob brought up the rear. They all hurried to the ferry, which was to take them into San Francisco, and as soon as the boat had started, Helen began to feel better. They were sitting inside, but near a whole row of open windows and the breeze blew in fresh and cool.

"Feel better now?" questioned Warren. Helen turned to him gratefully, for he had behaved with a tact peculiar to him and she appreciated it.

"Yes, dear, I do," she said smiling. "I move that we don't do anything strenuous today, but wait till tomorrow," suggested Warren; "what do you say, people?"

"I for one am tickled to death," said Louise. "I want to feel fresh when I visit the fair grounds for the first time."

"Suits me," said Bob nonchalantly.

HELEN'S IMPULSIVENESS

"You are certainly the best people to travel with and the most considerate I have ever known," said Helen impulsively.

"Not really," said Bob teasingly "I think we are simply acting on our own inclinations," said Louise. "You don't think I am unselfish, do you Bob?"

Bob made a face at her and she pitched his ear lovingly. Helen thought the arrival not so bad after all, and when she saw the tall clock tower with its welcome sign, she felt almost jubilant.

They took a taxi and Warren gave the name of the hotel to the driver. Market street was a revelation to Helen and Louise, and they both exclaimed at sight of the crowded streets.

"If anyone should ask me for first impressions," said Louise gally, "I should reply, Jitneys. Have you ever seen such a sight in your life?"

The Jitney busses, as they were called, crowded the streets. They rolled up and down incessantly, and were more plentiful than trolleys, and far more cluttery, as Helen expressed it.

"Why, they just spoil the streets," she said in a disappointed tone.

"They do, that's a fact, but then you see they have no underground transportation here."

"I never thought of that," said Helen thoughtfully, "but I should think there might be some other way than this. At least those frightful signs on the front might be abolished."

The taxi stopped in front of the Castle House at that moment. "A more conservative hotel than the St. Regina and just as good," as Warren said.

Going up in the elevator Helen remarked that she was really quite hungry.

"But I should like to eat in negligee," she said laughingly.

"We'll have lunch served upstairs today," said Warren immediately.

"Why, of course, I didn't stop to think, but we can do that, can't we?" said Helen. "I am so glad."

TRUE COMFORT

Their rooms were adjoining and the nice part about them was the fact that each boasted of its own bathroom in an alcove made of a corner of the otherwise square room. Helen was delighted with this fact and after they had become somewhat settled Warren telephoned down to the dining room and inside of a few minutes a waiter was at the door.

Helen had time to take a hot bath and dress anew, but she slipped into a negligee and the meal was served in their room. Louise was enthusiastic over everything and suggested a trip to Golden Gate Park that afternoon.

"Bob and I want this to be our treat," she said eagerly.

"Not if I know it," said Warren, "everything about this trip is to be dutch."

"Yes," said Helen, "that is really much better, Louise; then we can always square things at the end of the day and neither Bob nor Warren need be bothered with extra expenses."

Louise was finally persuaded to look at matters the way they did and the four finally set out in a hired machine for Golden Gate Park.

"Of course, we can't be as sporty as this every day," said Helen, "tomorrow we shall be riding on the trolleys."

"You have the idea, Helen," said Bob approvingly.

The beautiful park on the outskirts of San Francisco brought series of delight from both women. Even the more prosaic Bob and Warren were impressed and the chauffeur pointed out various points of interest, among them the Portals of the Past, a succession of gleaming white marble pillars, all that remained after the earthquake of a very handsome estate and mansion.

"This beats Franklin Park," said Warren after a time.

"You bet. Well, they have it on us in some things out here, but then I like little old Boston town a lot."

"And I," from Helen.

"Don't forget me," sang out Louise.

"Well, we don't seem to have any leanings toward this country out here as yet," said Bob.

"This is only the first day, you boob," remarked Warren witheringly, and they all laughed.

Wants Some Thinking Out

Pensively Patrick gazed into the pigsty, and fixed his eye and knitted his brow on the fat little object that snugly snorted to itself.

"H'm," he muttered, as, shifting into a different position, he viewed the piglet from another angle.

Along came Betty O'Hoyle, but not even her pretty face could lure Patrick from his contemplations.

"An' how's the pig Pat?" she asked, slightly piqued by his indifference.

"He's a livin' wonder" came the emphatic answer.

"Shure, and how's that, Patrick?" inquired Betty, drawing nearer the sty.

"He jabbers," excaimed the contemplative one, "he's just guzzled two pailfuls of milk, and then I put him in the pail, and he didn't half fill it!"

The Desired Goal

Teacher: "I wonder what your mother would say if she knew how backward you are in history?"

Pupil: "Oh, my mother says she never learnt 'istry, and she's married, and Aunt Selina says she never learnt 'istry, and she's married, and you did learn 'istry, and you ain't married.

Serpents as Hypnotists

They Not Only Can Hypnotize, but They Can Be Hypnotized

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

NOT all the eloquence of enthusiastic naturalists describing the beauty of coloring and the grace of motion that characterize many serpents can persuade the average person to admire those reptiles or even willingly to put up with their presence.

There is no doubt that the choice of the serpent to represent the destroyer of man's happiness in the Garden of Eden was based upon instinctive repugnance for the lurking, repugnant nature of the ophidian, whose lethal weapon is poison.

To the questionable sort of compensation which nature bestowed upon the serpent in its fangs was added another gift by way of corollary, the power of fascination. The existence of such a power has been strongly denied, and no doubt its manifestations have been exaggerated; nevertheless, its reality seems, to have been established. Cases of fascination by serpents of birds and other small animals have been too frequently reported to admit of serious doubt on the subject. Evidently it is simply a kind of hypnotism, and based, like human hypnotism, on the effects of rhythmical impressions made upon the nervous system.

Experiment has proved that the monotonous swinging of a glittering object before the eyes will throw many men and women into hypnotic sleep. When a serpent charms, or fascinates a bird or small quadruped it employs a similar method. It sways its head with glittering eyes, or sets its brilliantly colored coils into silent rhythmic movement, within sight of its victim, and the latter gradually yields to the influence.

But the most dangerous serpents are themselves subject to this very hypnotic control, a fact which is the basis of the proceedings of the serpent charmers of India, and those of other countries where venomous snakes abound.

Music, or the monotonous repetition of musical notes, appears to be the most effective agent in serpent charming. It may be remarked that according to some observers the sounds produced by a rattlesnake, and even the loud hissing of some serpents, have a hypnotic influence, or at least a sort of paralyzing force, due, probably, to terror. The cobras of southern Asia and the mambas of related palms of Africa will come out of holes, erect their heads and a part of their bodies, and sway about in a kind of serpent dance when they hear the notes of a pipe played by a skilled performer.

However, no cobra charmer ever has sufficient confidence in his control over his dangerous subjects to neglect the removal of their fangs.

A cobra bite has been known to kill a man within a few minutes of its infliction.

A Jay Gould Story

The late John Hunny, the moving picture favorite, used to tell a story about Jay Gould.

"Gould had a wonderful head for affairs," he used to begin. "A man once said to him:

"'Jay, you ought to fire all your conductors. They wear diamond rings and studs. Well, train conductors can only wear diamonds by robbing the passengers.'

"That's true," Gould answered, scratching his cheek under his black beard. 'But, you see, those fellows have got 'em. The new chaps would have to get 'em.'"

Embarrassing Hairs Can Be Quickly Removed

(Beauty Culture)

Hairs can be easily banished from the skin by this quick, painless method. Mix into a stiff paste some powdered delatone and water, spread on hairy surface and in 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be free from hair or blemish. Excepting in very stubborn growths, one application is sufficient. To avoid disappointment, buy the delatone in an original package. —Advertisement.

For Freckled, Tanned, Red or Wrinkled Skin

Just beneath that freckled, tanned or reddened complexion there's an exquisitely fair skin of youthful tint and delicacy. If you could only bring this complexion to the surface, discarding the discolored one! You can—in the easiest, simplest, most natural manner imaginable. Just get at any druggists an ounce of ordinary mercolized wax, apply nightly like cold cream, removing in mornings with warm water. The wax unseals Nature by gradually peeling off the thin, worn cuticle, scorched and half-dead surface skin, causing no discomfort whatever. Cutaneous defects like pimples, blotches, liver spots, moth patches, freckles, tan, sunburn disappear with the discarded skin. Nothing else will accomplish such wonderful results in so short a time.

Fine lines and even deeper wrinkles often appear at this season. In such case nothing is better than a face bath made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel. This is remarkably effective.—Advertisement.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were strong in the last hour, with U. S. Steel higher and the leader in New York. It was bought in big lots. Among gains of 2-15 were Allis-Chalmers 1%, American Can 2, Car & Foundry 3%, American Locomotive 1%, Baldwin 2%, Bethlehem 3%, Colorado Fuel 1%, Crucible 1%, Distillers 1%, General Electric 1, General Motors 5, Goodrich 1%, Maxwell 1%, N. Y. Air Brake 1%, Pressed Steel 1%, Republic Steel 2%, Studebaker 1%, Westinghouse 1%, Willys-Overland 2, Tennessee Copper 1%, Utah 8, China 8, Anaconda 3, Baltimore & Ohio 2, Canadian Pacific 1%, N. Y. Central 1%, Reading 3, and Southern Pacific 1. In the last half hour U. S. Steel was up 2% at 74. Among declines were St. Paul ½ and Rock Island ¼.

Gains in Boston included Butte & Superior 1%, American Zinc 1%, Calumet & Arizona ½, Copper Range ½, North Butte 1, Osceola 1, St. Mary's 1, Tamarack 1, U. S. Smelting ¾, Pond Creek ½, United Fruit 2½, Wollen preferred 1, New Haven 2. Among declines were Alaska Gold ¼, Boston & Maine ½ and Greene-Cananea ¼.

WAR STOCKS THE HIGHEST.

At the opening stocks ranged higher, and that remained the case until afternoon, although there were wavering periods. After the early advance rallies were somewhat irregular and also dull. The large gains were in war order issues. Copper was strong as a class. While the New York market was inclined to be nervous, there was the belief that the general belief nothing serious would develop until Germany had been heard from concerning the Arabic. No haste of Berlin in making a statement is expected. Whatever it may be, others think, will be the Washington attitude for several days or longer. The big market has not as active as yesterday. Outsiders are inclined to avoid commitments until the present international difficulty is settled. Tension is somewhat relaxed. Stocks were supplied on the early advance, but were in renewed demand later. Tennessee Copper and N. Y. Air Brake sold at their highest in eight years. There was little change in sterling exchange. If anything the tone was easier. Duration of the loan and its interest rate are two questions over which international bankers disagree in regard to proposed British borrowing.

GOOD NEWS FOR THE DEAF

If you are losing your hearing—if you are troubled with buzzing and ringing in the ears—if your throat or your nostrils are clogged—if you hawk and spit in the morning—if you have given up hope of finding relief, just go to Riker-Jaynes, or any other drug store, and purchase one ounce of Sterling Essence. Take with one pint of warm water. Put two drops in the affected ear every night. Put one tablespoonful in a fourth of a glass of warm water and gargle throat and snuff up nose night and morning. Keep this up for a few weeks and test your hearing and you will be pleased to note the improvement. You will also, no doubt, discover that your catarrh has disappeared and head noises gone.

WILBUR HAS THE FIRST BIG OPENING

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

"Nobody Home," which had its opening at the Wilbur Theatre last night, can be regarded as a great, big, brisker of mirth, a true winner, guaranteed to make you grin under any circumstances.

It is presented by the Marbury-Comstock Company, was written by Guy Bolton and Paul Rubens, and its music is from the pen of Jerome Kern.

It may be described as a quiet musical farce. It possesses a plot that is bright, joyous and innocent. The music is gay, tuneful and rather ingenious. It gets you moving your feet whether you are flat-footed or not.

The people in the cast are magnetic, merry and skillful performers. Ten comedians are workers in amusing characterization instead of buffoons. It is actually a musical comedy of refinement. Even the syncopation is tuneful and inoffensive.

Lawrence Grossmith, the English comedian, heads the cast. He plays a character he impresses himself upon from some weird English village, and right from his rims the tone of the prima donna at the Winter Garden, he is a comedian of all-wool and mixed blessing.

Grossmith makes fun most delightfully. He only sings one song which is entitled, "Bed, Beautiful Bed," but he impresses himself upon the piece from beginning to end.

Adele Rowland appears as the Winter Garden queer. She also is a sweet and sympathetic character, and she sings nicely and sings very effectively. Her best song is "Any Old Night" but "The Magic Melody" is very catchy.

Charles Judels, as an Italian gentleman, married to a rich but stingy wife is genuinely funny, and so is Tom Graves as a hotel clerk and interior decorator.

Maude Odell, as the rich but stingy wife, displays much cleverness.

DANCES WIN APPLAUSE.

Nigel Barrie and Laura Hamilton are pleasant people who sing and dance very nicely.

There are two dancers, Quentin Tod and Helen Clarke, whose character dances won much applause last night, and there is a long cast and a pretty chorus, all of whom deserve praise, especially as the poor things must have suffered from the heat in amusing us all.

There isn't any use in telling the story because it resembles the name of the play. As an entertainment for the vacation season, it is to be recommended.

Between the acts a party of dressmakers' models from New York walked up and down the aisles displaying the fall and Winter styles. They had to wear furs, with most of the costumes. Alas, the poor working girl!

Gaiety Theatre.

The Gaiety Theatre, newly decorated in crimson, cream and gold, which has added materially to the former cheerfulness and cosiness of this popular playhouse, opened for the season yesterday, the attraction being "The Maids of America," with Al K. Hall and Dave Barclay.

Barclay is as funny as Charlie Chaplin, without trying to imitate the "movie star." He is the "red hot stove man" in the melange. A Hall, the Snow Man, was equally as funny.

There were many other things that were attractive besides the stars. The big chorus was celebrated for its uniformity of size and statelines. They can all sing and dance and winning act of girls, who know how to do.

One of the features in the singing was that it had a male quartet as a background. Joe Morris, as the wandering Jerman, added much to the work of Hall and Barclay. He is a comedian of unusual himself.

Miss Talbot as the Queen of Straland certainly has a pretty voice, figure and an extraordinary whining personality.

Lowe's Globe.

There is an attractive show at the Globe this week. It is headed by Harry Brooks and company, Edith Foley and Irene LaTour, Harry Rose, the Duquesne Four, Leonard and Louie Smith and West, and other vaudeville features. The pictures as usual are top notchers, headed by the Romance of Rhine. The organ at the Globe is a feature.

Amusements at Greater Boston Summer Resorts

PARAGON PARK.

New big acts in the Palm Garden at Paragon Park. Three Pendleton Sisters, Agnes Lee, aerialist, Art Spaulding and Mile. Camille, Dansant activities. Big free show in the park.

NANTASKET BEACH.

Frequent service by the fine steamers of the Nantasket Line to Paragon Park and Nantasket, the finest beach in New England.

PEMBERTON INN.

Delightful dinner specialties. Big cabaret headed by M. Quinn, Miss Sawyer and Miss Fletcher. Dansant.

BASS POINT.

The lively resort where shore dinners are a specialty. Frequent trips by the Nahant steamers from Boston and by the line of steamers from Revere Beach.

STEAMER KING PHILIP.

Daily trips to the fishing grounds on the steamer King Philip. Captain Dixon. All day on the grounds. Tree lines and chowder.

NORUMBEGA PARK THEATRE.

"Other People's Money," a smashing musical comedy, is the feature of the Park this week. It has a good chorus, lively principals and bright music.

LEXINGTON PARK.

Farewell week of the Adam Good Stock Company of dramatists and Mary J. Holmes' famous story, "Lena Rivers."

PLYMOUTH.

Daily trips at 10 a. m. from Rowes Wharf to the home of the Pilgrims.

Boston Theatre.

Madame Olga Petrova, the beautiful emotional actress, whose success in "Panthea" and "The Heart of a Painted Woman" have made her a tremendous favorite with motion picture fans, is the star attraction at the Boston Theatre the first three days of this week. Miss Petrova is appearing in "The Vampire," a thrilling story of love, hate, vengeance and the regeneration of a woman. She is pitted against than sinning, through the call of love and wakening in her heart.

Mme. Petrova is the ideal actress for this part. Somewhat resembling her role in "Panthea," she is the cattlike, alluring, Cleopatra-like beauty that one instinctively associates with the subject of Kipling's great poem. This great drama is in five parts, and the picture is instinctively follows every inch of the film with intense interest from start to finish.

Charlie Chaplin and Mary Pickford, as usual, appeared in their respective roles, and Caroline B. Nichols and the Pathe News continue their popular daily concerts.

Waldron's Casino.

"Blutch Cooper's Gypsy Maids" are the attraction at this house. Two lively shows are given daily, headed by this organization, which includes a big chorus of pretty girls and Ray Rae and Jack Miller are the leading comedians and the two burlesques are entitled "Around the World" and "The Spotting Fikers."

Although the show includes many features which are held over from last season, there are also a number of new attractions which make it very entertaining.

Miss Shirley Lawrence, soprano, appears in the role of Harry P. Kelly and company, in a sketch called "Alaska or Bust," and the Walthour troop of cyclists.

Modern Theatre.

One of the most successful of all films is "The White Sister," the famous play by F. Marion Crawford, which Viola Allen starred upon the legitimate stage. Viola Allen may be seen this week at the Modern in a very splendid photo representation of "The White Sister." She is supported by a powerful company.

The story deals with the love of a young Italian girl for an Italian army officer. Thinking he has been killed in battle she becomes a nun, and upon his return from captivity a very powerful situation arises. The play is faultlessly done and well worth seeing.

Plays That Remain.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

Andrew Mack began his second week at the Majestic last night in "Arms for Peace," the celebrated Boucicault drama of Irish life.

Miss Helen Lawson, the Arlington girl, who resembles Mary Pickford, made her stage debut. She possesses all the Pickfordesque style of acting.

TREMONT THEATRE.

"The Birth of a Nation" began what is positively its last fornight at the Tremont Theatre. There is not the slightest diminution in the popularity of the celebrated film.

NAT WILLS REAL FUN MAKER AT KEITH'S

Nat Wills has become a victim of the dance craze, he assured the audience at Keith's Theatre last evening. He's learning a lot of new steps, he says. "Sidewalk flop, homeward stagger and front stoop hesitation," are what he calls them.

He has some new funny songs, too, and would be delighted to sing more, but he sot near a draft last week. "Had the key turned up side of me," he says. He's just back from the San Francisco exposition, he tells us, and I don't mind saying it's a swell big walk." Somehow all these hits seem to get an audience down around the floating pibs and create laughter.

But Nat, funniest of tramps, by no means provides the whole entertainment. Jack Wyatt and Jack Herzog bring on the greatest applause of the evening, in addition to their bell ringing they give a little bell ringing in a way that is very realistic of Mexican life.

Their act is presented in such a way that it is possible to imagine them on a stage of a sure enough Mexican "teatro." They won round after round of encores.

Magic King, the girl who danced down the steps of the Metropolitan in New York, and Tyler Brooke, do some clever "society" dancing, for which they are known, in a costume such as might well be designed for a ball, and Brooke and Bowers do burlesques does a military stem-school which is very interesting.

Winsor McCay and his funny comics will be remembered by every reader of the New York Sunday American whose striking cartoons appear regularly in the Evening American. McCay's work is full of humor, with some of his art in motion pictures. He draws with the famous animated cartoonist in action.

The plaster of the evening is contributed by Frances Nordstrom and William Pinkham, and it is called "Mr. and Mrs. Weenz." It is rather good.

Others on the bill are Binns and Burt, called "wrinkle creasers;" Ann Greenway, society entertainer, with her amusing pianologue; Tony Hunting and Corinne Frazee in a "Love Loonenger," and Mary Ellen, a baby elephant comedienne.

Scollay Square Olympia.

The Lewis Grace and Girls company was received with much pleasure yesterday at the Scollay Square Olympia Theatre. Ten people with special scenery and effects comprise the show, which is full of harmonic and entertaining. Osborne's Dogtown Revue, featuring "Race," the dog with a fur, was also well received.

Harrison West trio in talk, song and dance, and Devil's March, a Mephisto sketch, was intensely dramatic and well received. Lew Hawkins in his own songs and dances; Pollard, "The Gabby Juggler," pleased.

Lime and Tuberculosis

Dr. Roberts Isarthelow, former professor of Physiology at Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, says in his Materia Medica (1893), on page 215 and 216: "Clinical experience has shown that it (referring to a calcium salt) possesses the ill-defined property known as alterative, removes certain toxic or morbific materials and secures their secretion by the organs of elimination . . . The only preparation which has lately been published in respect to its curative powers in consumption is certainly very striking." Dr. Isarthelow refers to a testimony regarding Eckman's Alterative, the above mentioned proprietary remedies. However, many of the consumption cases have yielded to this remedy.

This success may be due largely to the fact that in Eckman's Alterative all of the lime salts are in solution, and in other words are rendered assimilable and assimilated by the average person. It contains neither opiates, cocaine nor habit-forming drugs, so is safe. Sold by all Bilker Drug Stores and leading Druggists.

Coming Events in Boston Show Houses

SHUBERT THEATRE.

"Experience," the George V. Hobart morality play, begins its run in Boston next Saturday night. This piece ran a year in New York. It is said to be not only unique, but most pleasing. The seats went on sale yesterday and the demand was very gratifying to the management.

COLONIAL THEATRE.

Opens early in September with "The Girl from Utah," including Julia Sanderson, Donald Brian and Joe Cawthorne.

TREMONT THEATRE.

Opens early in September with "The Sho of Songs," headed by Irene Fenwick, the Al Woods show which made such a hit in New York early in season.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

Opens early in September with the clever farce, "She's In Again."

PLYMOUTH THEATRE.

Opens early in September with "The White Feather," a clever play dealing with the war.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE.

"Twin Beds," the funniest farce that ran in New York last season, is the first attraction at this new theatre (formerly the Castle Square) which the Selwyns have acquired. The entire original cast, including Madge Kennedy and Ray Cox will positively appear.

OUR FIRST DUTY IS TO MAINTAIN PEACE;
OUR NEXT DUTY IS TO PREPARE FOR WAR

TUESDAY, AUGUST 24, 1915.

To the Governors of the States, One Hundred Million Welcomes to the Summer Playground of the Nation!

An Important Occasion, the Eighth Governors' Conference, Not Thoughtlessly to Be Broken in Upon by "Entertainment"; but We DO Hope Our Guests Can Remain With Us Into a Second Week and So See the Natural Beauties of These Six States

To the visiting Governors, greeting, and an hundred million welcomes! May our guests find New England as cheerfully genial, and as royally hospitable, as she earnestly desires to be; and may the sessions of the eighth Governors' Conference be broadly helpful, not only to its distinguished members but to all the people of all the States.

New England is glad to entertain the Governors and hopes they will not only come again, but often.

Many of our friends, when they study the map of our country, glance at the little corner which is called New England and think of it as a hive of industry, a great workshop. For this reason we are glad that, in their hours of recess and play this week, the Governors will see Boston Harbor, Gloucester, the North Shore, Marblehead, Nantasket Beach, Concord, Lexington and the carnival on the Charles at Waltham.

Nobody, we hope, will feed the Governors with statistics. Being leaders, men of affairs, the first citizens of their States, our distinguished visitors may be assumed to know where the United States gets its cottons, its woolens, its shoes and a large proportion of its other manufactured goods. The Governors know something about our fisheries, too. They also will have observed that the Port of Boston is the second of importance in the United States.

What WE would have our guests appreciate is that New England is the Summer playground of the Nation. Their tours in Greater Boston will help them to understand why. If the Governors can stay another week, they should visit Portland and the Maine coast, the lakes and the White Mountains of New Hampshire, the green hills of Vermont and Lake Champlain, in Western Massachusetts the Berkshires, Cape Cod and the canal, Newport and Narragansett Pier, and the shore towns of Connecticut.

Studying New England in this fashion, the Governors would understand why so comparatively few New Englanders, after all, have been tempted or can be tempted to remain away from home. The country IS bigger, "out there," opportunities ARE more numerous, no brave and ambitious man can escape being rich, but here are the hays, the lakes, the trees, the rivers, the hills. Some of us love even the Winter and its snows!

We shall tell nothing of this to the Governors; they will see it for themselves.

It occurs to us to remind our neighbors that the Governors have not come to Boston for pleasure.

SOME New Englanders, we fear, misunderstand the REASON for this Governors' Conference.

The Governors have a serious and important program before them. Beginning this morning they will meet twice a day in the Senate Chamber at the State House. They have come together to exchange ideas on subjects which come up for solution in their respective Commonwealths, and get the benefit of one another's experience. Thus, at previous meetings, the Conference has taken up uniform legislation on marriage and divorce, direct primaries, the popular election of United States Senators, conservation of natural resources, the State income tax, efficiency and economy in State administration.

This week, the compelling subject will be the "Relation of the State to the National Defence." We observe that this question, "Preparedness," will be taken up on Friday and that Secretary of War Lindley M. Garrison will participate in the discussion. It is safe to say that next Friday's meeting, in the little Senate Chamber at the State House, will command the respectful attention of good citizens all over the Union.

We call attention again today to the BUSINESS side of the Governor's Conference because we have seen a condensed list of the luncheons which threaten our guests and we are a little apprehensive for them. Killing the Governors with kindness is not being kind to them. "Business before pleasure" is the excellent motto of the Governors' Conference, and we hope no chairman, of any committee, will ask to have one of the seven business meetings of the Conference hurried up, or cut short, because the "automobiles are waiting."

Wednesday's review of the North Atlantic fleet will be a good thing for the Governors and a better thing for the Navy. The Chamber of Commerce dinner at Marblehead, Wednesday evening, will express the delight which is Boston's at being the meeting-ground of the leaders of American thought and opinion. The review of the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia on Thursday will likewise be important. Everything else on the "social" program, in our opinion, should wait the pleasure of the Governors and the convenience of the Conference.

Our visitors are big men. They come from big States. Ten of the States already represented here by their chief executives are each of them larger in area than all the six States which are called New England.

We hope the Governors will have a big time. If we can make the Governors happy, New England will be happy.

WHY IS IT?

"The Man Higher Up"

Leaders Are Needed to Light the Way Out of an Industrial Wilderness—but Where Are They to Come From?

By Scott Nearing

This is the second article of a series by Dr. Scott Nearing, disclosing some of the "radical views" that caused his dismissal from the faculty of the wealthy University of Pennsylvania.

WE are at present face to face with some of the most profound, far-reaching problems that the human mind has ever tried to solve. For example, the Machine of Production, how shall we guide it in the interests of common good? This great industrial system—how shall we manage it? This great competitive battle for the markets of the world, this great commercial rivalry—how shall we control it? Will these machines help us as a nation or hurt most of us? Where is the prophet that will lead us out of this wilderness?

Now, as heretofore, we depend upon leadership; the answer to all questions depends on the leaders who think, speak, write and act for the people.

The question that we face in industry is this—where are the industrial leaders? How shall they be discovered and be made to lead us to a solution of these questions? Today in the industrial world, and nowhere more pressing than there, the world is seeking salvation.

You men and women are forever telling your boys that there is room at the top. Is there a place at the top for your boy?

Little Room in Great Industries

In the manufacturing industries of the United States at the last census there were six and a half millions of people working the Great Machine. Eighty-six in every 100 were wage-earners; nine in every 100 were superintendents, managers and clerks, and five in every 100 were proprietors, firm members and corporation officials.

In the creamery business there is plenty of room at the top, but in the great industries of the country, those toward which the life of the country is surely turning, there is a different state of affairs.

In the steel industry in every 100 ninety-two are wage-earners; eight are superintendents, managers and clerks; three in 1,000 are proprietors.

In the cotton industry in every 100 ninety-eight are wage-earners; one and three-quarters are superintendents; five in 1,000 are proprietors.

In the railroad industry, the most highly organized of all, in which one and three-quarter millions of people are employed, in each 100 ninety are wage-earners, ten are superintendents, three in 1,000 are real leaders. The more highly organized the industry the fewer there are at the top.

Highest Officials Take Orders

Consider the position of the leaders in industry. First, let us take the group of superintendents, managers and others in secondary positions of leadership. The man who goes into industry as a superintendent, takes orders. He sinks his individuality into the industry and is just as much a part of the railroad system as the man who throws the switch; the efficiency of the railroad depends on the submergence of the personality of those who are employed by it.

The corporation official, the railroad president, is in a somewhat different position. He is held responsible by the people and is supposed to be responsible. But he has on his one hand the people, on his other the financial power behind the company. The so-called men in authority have to take orders.

Organized industry is apt to say we don't want independent men; we want agreeable men who will do our bidding.

Let us turn to the schools. There is an astounding sameness in the school system. Ninety-one per cent. of school children are in the elementary schools; six per cent. are in the high schools; two per cent. are in the normal schools and only three in a thousand in the professional schools and colleges.

We find in the schools a worship of authority that is without parallel in human history. The heroes of old were fed on the marrow of lions and bears—look at the average curriculum. They took the fire of their spirits from the flash of Jove's thunderbolt—look at the position of the "school marm" today? Do the schools make leaders? When did a treadmill make a master?

The essential principle of school work is to make the child do what he is told. We are developing in our education system the same kind of an iron-clad system as exists in our industry.

Few of you work in a school where the teacher is free to do anything, that the principal does not say he can; where the principal can do anything without the approval of the superintendent; where the superintendent can move without the word of the school board.

We train the child to do only as he is told. What about the teachers who dare not express an opinion in their own town for fear the school board will throw them out? These the trainers of our leaders? Leaders are not taught that way.

Colleges Do Not Solve Problem

The colleges deal largely with sapwood. The term "sapheaded" conveys largely the same idea. Boys are in college because you send them there; not because they got down in the battle of life and put themselves there. Three-fourths of them are there because you are paying the bills.

In the ordinary Eastern college nine-tenths of the scholars come from homes where the father is earning more than $1,200 a year. Nine-tenths of them come from one-tenth of the homes.

The reason that thousands of others who are better, more brilliant, stronger men are not in the colleges is that they do not have the money.

The colleges are training the sons and daughters of the rich, and the per cent. of geniuses and blockheads runs about the same as in the lower strata—with this difference; that the lower strata, so called, is nine times as great in numbers as the higher strata and therefore contains nine times as many geniuses.

Furthermore, in the lower strata circumstances compel more effort, more earnestness—and these develop genius.

This is not true of the agricultural colleges of the West and Middle West, but it is true of the colleges of the East.

The republic must not take its leaders from one-tenth of the population.

If we are to have the best leaders, we must rely upon democracy, the whole population, to produce them; when we find them we must give them the opportunity to lead.

Inklings and Thinklings

By Wex Jones

Historic affinities: Tea and toast.

Reported that a price of $4,000 has been placed upon the head of D'Annunzio. This almost brings poets into the Jesse James class.

Despite Congressman Gardner's gloomy view of the navy's marksmanship, he could never persuade us to sit on the target when the fleet is practising.

Ohio man died after drinking twenty glasses of beer without a stop. However, it was no knock on the beer—he was killed by a train.

Historic affinities: Long and lanky.

Married Women and Young Adorers

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

THERE are scores of married women who find the attention of very young men agreeable—women who, perhaps, have watched the waning of romance in the eyes of their husbands and who, after a decade of years, when life has seemed verging toward the commonplace, suddenly realize that they possess the power to attract some younger man, and to stir his heart with a feeling stronger than friendship.

Almost every woman possessed of any mental or physical charms has had the opportunity for such an experience.

Too often this opportunity has been seized, and the youth has been led on to make a young fool of himself, which flatters the woman's vanity, while she has been quite unconscious that she herself was playing an old role of an older fool.

Occasionally a woman possesses the good sense and the pride and the self-respect to curb impulses of the too romantic youth before they develop too far, and to change him from an adoring swain into a delightful friend.

One such man tells of the treatment received at the hands of a married woman with whom he became hopelessly in love, shortly after leaving college; and he shows her letter, written in answer to an impassioned missive which he sent to her one night, after sitting beside her at dinner.

Not till years afterward did he show the letter—for, when it was first received, it hurt his pride and wounded his vanity.

Here are some extracts from her letter—a letter which it might be well for many a woman to copy and use in similar situations:

"I happen to be a woman whose heart life is complete," wrote the lady. "I have realized my dreams, and I have no desire to change them to nightmares. I like the original role in life's drama, too; and that of the really happy and well-behaved wife seems to me less hackneyed than that of the misunderstood woman who needs a friend.

"I find the steady flame of one lamp better to read life's meaning by than the flaring light of many candles. You are passing through a phase which comes to nearly every youth. You are in love with love, and your affectionate nature is in that transition period where an older woman appeals to you.

"Being crude and unformed, a mature mind and body attract you. Any middle-aged man of your acquaintance will tell you that he had a similar experience at your age.

"If you had been thrown with any other woman just as you have been thrown with me, the same result would have followed. So while I am not flattered by your feeling for me, knowing it to be no tribute to my attractions, I am glad, for your sake, that it was myself and not some less happy or more selfish woman who would have allowed you to proceed along the path of youthful folly.

"Few boys of twenty-two are capable of knowing what they want in a life companion, and ten years from now your ideal will have utterly changed.

"When you say that you wish you had met me when I was free, I am obliged to smile; for when I was free you were rolling a hoop along the pavement and wearing knickerbockers.

"If I were free now, think how ridiculous it would make you and me to have you an acknowledged lover. How shortly you would awaken from your illusion—which you call love—and see me as I am, twelve years your senior.

"Men of your age have married women of my age, and for a year or two, perhaps, they have been happy; but when the man reached my age and the woman was still a dozen years his senior, the man was miserable and the woman wretched, almost invariably.

"It is an unnatural situation; and you want to thank God and me that it is an impossible one for you.

"Your heart will no doubt experience many loves before you find the mate intended for you by the Divine Power.

"Do not take yourself or your youthful passions too seriously, and do not let yourself be compromised by a married woman; and do not allow yourself to compromise one.

"You will find many restless wives, ready and willing to take the romantic attentions of a handsome youth; but they are not women who will be worthy influences in your life.

"Put this letter away and keep it until you can write and thank me for it; you will be able to do this in time.

"Do not answer it; and when we meet be my good sensible friend, and one I can introduce to my husband, for only such do I care to know."

It was after the young man was happily married that he showed this letter to his friends and permitted these extracts to be given to the world.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

Making a Bad Matter Worse

WHEN my Uncle Alexander in his conduct got so queer
That the squirrels began to chatter every time that he drew near,
I consulted with a doctor, who declared: "It's mental strain;
He has all the early symptoms of a badly skidding brain.
What he needs is some distraction to clear up his cloudy thinks,
I advise a daily session on some quiet golfing links."

SO I bought a bunch of niblicks, mashies, brassies and the rest
Of the curious utensils of which golfers are possessed.
And I hired a husky Scotchman, for a handsome wage per day,
To take on my wavering uncle and instruct him how to play.
And so fascinated was he with his drives and putts and swats—
In a week he left off claiming he was Mary Queen of Scots.

BUT, alas, his conversation, never lucid at the best,
Now excites profound misgivings in my apprehensive breast.
All he talks about is stymies, drives and brassies, greens and tees—
He's become a hopeless victim of the deadly golf disease.
And my conscience gnaws my vitals and my guilty heart is sore;
How I wish my poor old uncle was a harmless nut once more.

Mere Imitators

The Germans deserve no great credit for discovering a way to make alcohol of chicory. The French have been making coffee of it for more than half a century.

Real Foresight.

Colonel Roosevelt hardly had left off notifying the world that China is even more defenceless than the United States before the Standard Oil Company went over there and began to take possession.
